School district signs agreement for swim-gym

By DAVID LELAND

AN OFFICIAL agreement has been inked between organizers of Carmel Area Swim/Gym and the Carmel Unified School District Board of Trustees.

The memorandum of understanding outlines plans for the school district to lease land for the project for $1 annually, while the swim gym will sublet the completed facility back to the district for the same amount.

"This is a project for the community; it transcends the school district," said CUSD Supt. Bob Infelise, also a member of the swim/gym board. "That was the intent to begin with."

The swim/gym board is composed of Dick Falge, president; Merv Sutton, vice president; Sandy Sandstrum, financial officer; Ted Ardell; Infelise; Bruce Meyer; Marion Tavernetti; and Diane Whitesides.

'This is a project for the community; it transcends the school district. That was the intent to begin with.'

— Bob Infelise
— CUSD Supt.

The complex will be located on CUSD-owned land, located adjacent to the district office on Carmel Valley Road near Carmel Middle School.

CUSD board president Gary Gray rejoiced at the chance to use school property for a project that could give so much in return to the district.

"It's a rare opportunity and we're all delighted to be a part of it," he said, speaking for the board. "It's one of those rare matches made in heaven — it's a deal that literally benefits everybody."

While the original idea formed in 1981 with $100,000 in anonymous seed money called for a $30 million complex with a performing arts center, current plans indicate $6 million facility catering to the swim and aquatic needs of the community.

"It (swim/gym) will enhance our physical education program for the middle school and inter-scholastic programs for the high school," Infelise said.

Proposed community uses include the Barracudas Swim Club, senior citizens' groups, such as the Carmel Foundation, and handicapped swimmers.

Independent business consultant Andy Briant, who was hired earlier this year as project manager, is currently working on a facilities use study which will be completed in February.

Swim/gym complex organizers are responsible for building the project, while the CUSD will pick insurance costs once the project is operational.

The actual facility consists of an eight-lane outdoor swimming pool 50 meters by 75 feet and an indoor pool 75 feet by 45 feet, plus offices and locker rooms.

Briant said the next step will be to hire an outside contractor this February to analyze fund-raising possibilities for the project.

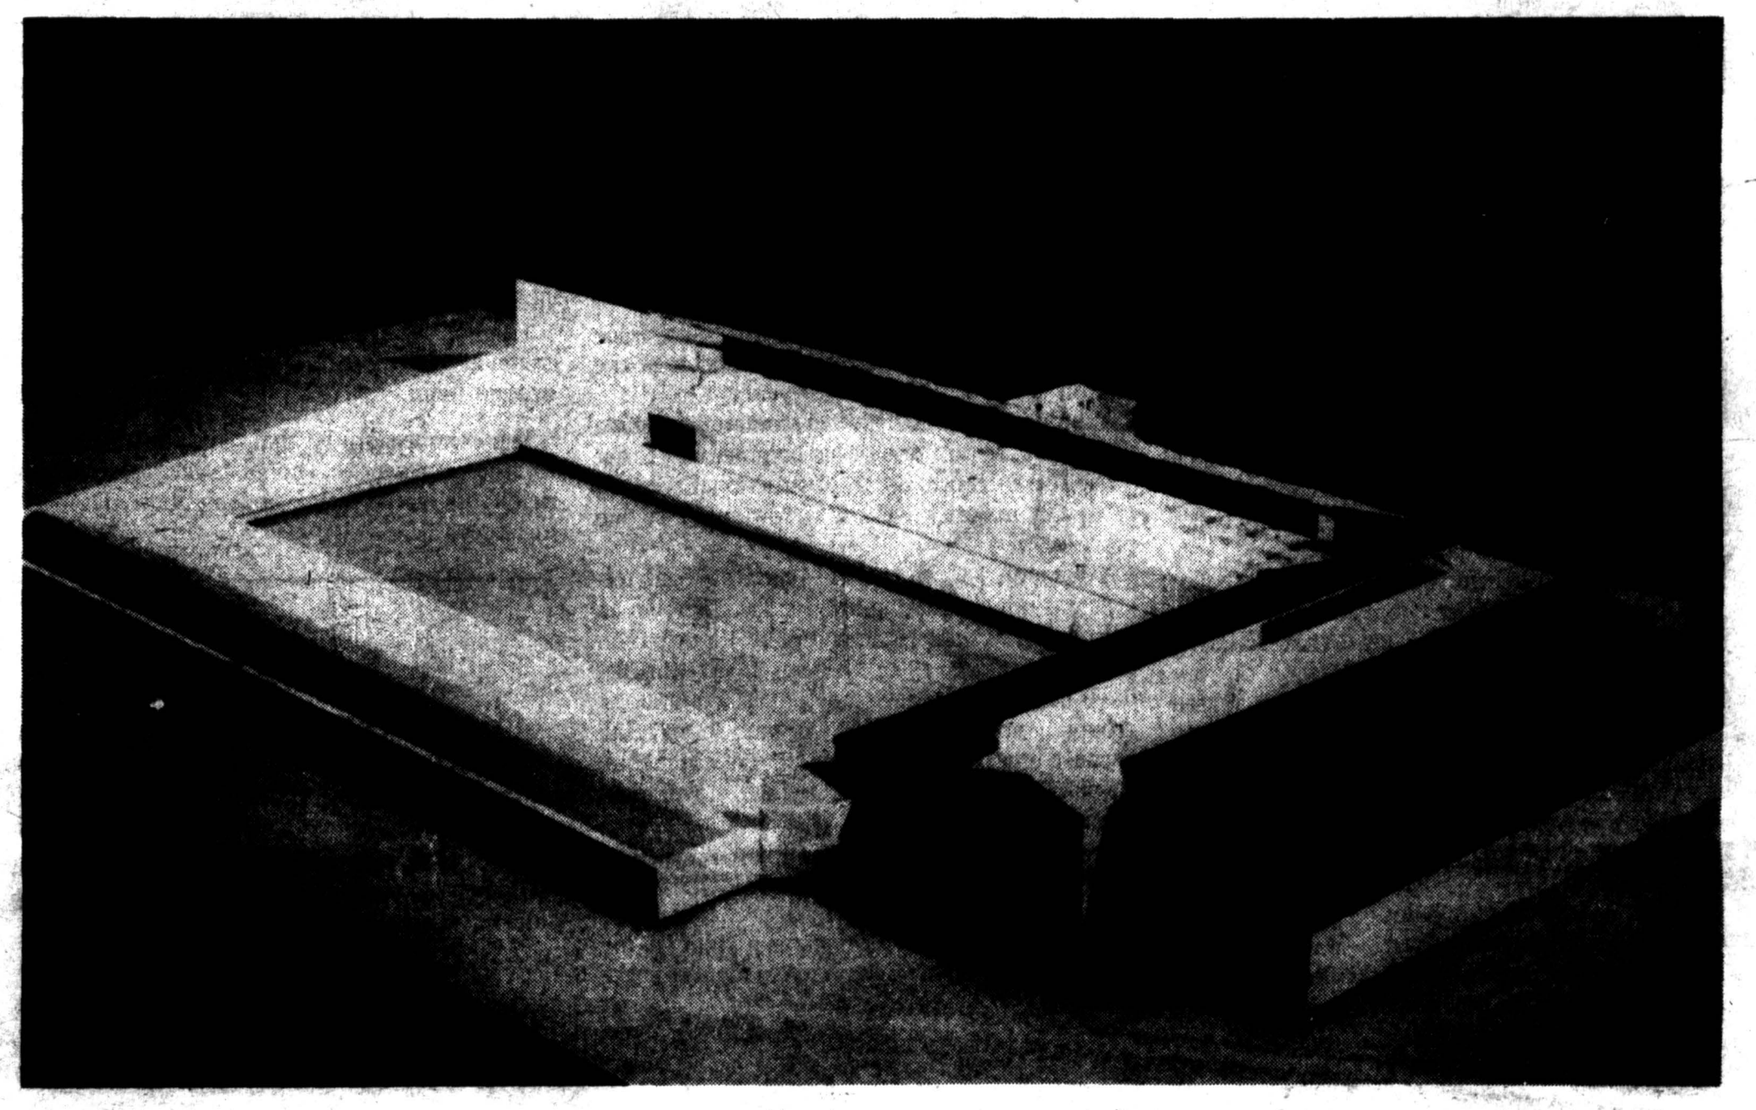
"That will tell the tale," he said, adding that the report will likely tell organizers the demographics entailed in raising money to fund the project. "(But) I don't think fund-raising will be a problem."

Briant added that he believes challenges such as traffic and water can be overcome in the less than two years it could take to construct the project.

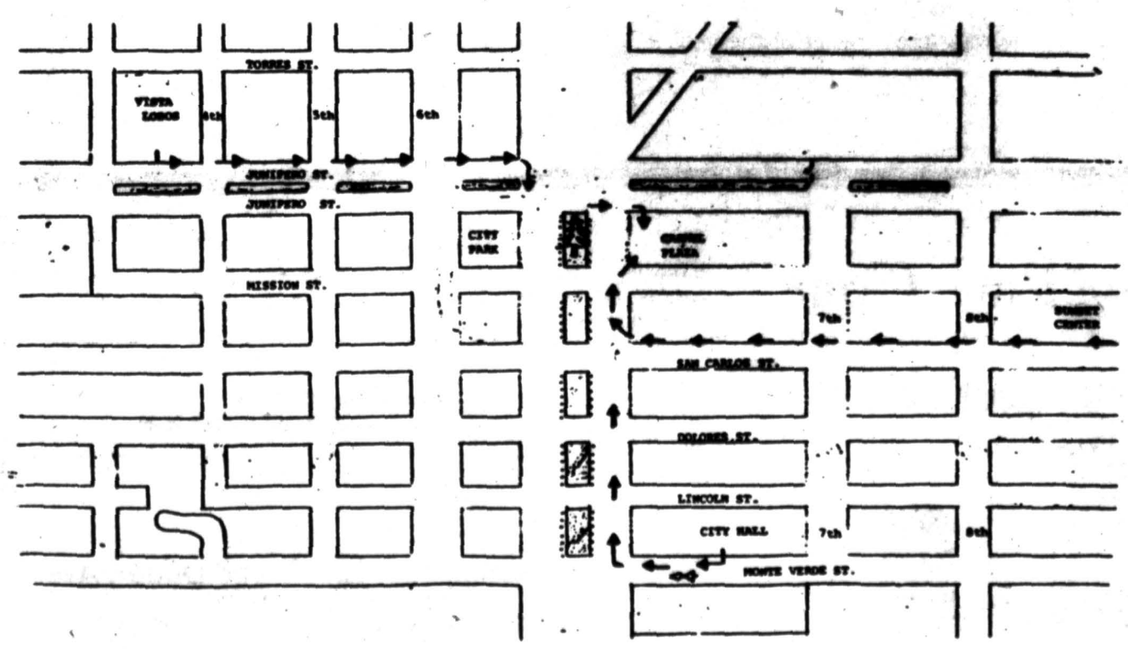
A swimming pool, after it is filled, uses less water than landscaping, he said. With that in mind, water could be transported in from out of state.

Traffic levels should not rise on Carmel Valley Road as a result of the swim/gym, he said.

Moreover, under the Carmel Valley Master Plan, Rio Road is scheduled to be extended onto school property.



THE CARMEL Unified School District Board of Trustees and Carmel Area Swim/Gym, Inc. signed an agreement this week toward the realization of the Carmel Aquatic Center, shown here in an artist's rendering. Once completed, the center, to be located on Carmel Valley Road near Carmel Middle School, will serve as home to organizations such as the Barracuda Swim Club, Carmel Foundation and physical education activities for the middle school and high school.



ROUTE CAROLERS will take Dec. 14 from Vista Lobos Park and from Carmel City Hall, ending up at the tree-lighting ceremonies at Carmel Plaza.

City tree lighting ceremony scheduled for Friday, Dec. 14

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA'S ANNUAL Christmas Holiday Event, including the lighting of the City's Christmas tree, will take place Friday, Dec. 14.

Beginning at 4 p.m. in Devendorf Park, all children are invited to participate in a variety of games including breaking of pinatas filled with holiday treats and surprises. The Carmel High School Band arrives at 5 p.m. in the front patio area of the Carmel Plaza on Ocean Avenue, and begins to play a variety of familiar holiday tunes.

At 5:30 p.m. groups of carolers will leave Vista Lobos Park, Sunset Center and City Hall, and stroll to Carmel Plaza. Everyone is encouraged to join one of these groups.

Shortly after 6 p.m., Myles Williams, the merry host for the evening, will call on the Carmel Business Association to announce the winners of the business decorating competition.

At 6:20 p.m., Mayor Jean Grace will officially light the city Christmas tree. The host for the evening will then lead everyone in Here Comes Santa Claus. Santa, hearing the song and seeing the lights of the tree, will arrive on a fire truck, and greet everyone. Santa's arrival will conclude the official ceremonies. Complimentary refreshments will be served throughout the evening.

Some special parking and traffic regulations will be in effect to ensure the safety of all participants. Parking will be prohibited between 4 and 7 p.m. on the west side of Junipero between Sixth and Ocean avenues, and on both sides of Ocean Avenue between Mission Junipero Streets. At 5 p.m. vehicle traffic on Ocean Avenue between Mission and Junipero Streets will be diverted until after the event concludes.

Doing some good

Dear Editor:

It's the time of the year when it's so much fun giving to help the ones poorer than you are.

I would like to invite all the grandmothers, grandfathers, mothers and dads to bring their grandchildren and (camera for a picture), down to the Longs store at The Crossroads to help ring the Salvation Army bell any day between 2 and 4:30 p.m. until Christmas.

It's fun to watch little kids ring the bell for the Salvation Army and they know they are doing some good and listen to them sing Jingle Bells – Come and watch.

P.S. The Salvation Army makes a dollar go a long way.

Blue smoke and mirrors

Dear Editor:

Shades of Tammany Hall! Are we ushering in a new era of politics characterized by "blue smoke and mirrors?" One might draw that conclusion if we look closely at the recent Carmel City Council action where the majority (White, Wright, Brooks) voted to "simplify" the March ballot issue on the Floor Area Ratio (FAR).

The initial straightforward and honest ballot proposal clearly offered two FAR choices, i.e. A-45 percent or B-40 percent. What could be more simple? – simply check the box of your choice. Instead, the council majority created some blue smoke and obscured the issue by eliminating the 45 percent option as a choice. The underlying motivation appears to be that the voters, now offered only one option, will simply check the box as a yes vote in favor of a FAR of 40 percent.

From the voter's viewpoint, we have lost the clear choice that was offered; and if we are unobservant of what is going on, we are in danger of being manipulated to achieve someone's personal agenda.

Harking back to Tammany Hall, it is interesting to note that it was a society formed to promote democratic ideals and only later became identified with questionable political practices. The democratic ideal is to offer the voting public a clear choice among issues so informed decisions can be made. In this sense, the general public is served. However, when we vote on the FAR, bring your fan to blow away the pall of blue smoke; let's hope the mirrors are being used by the council majority to examine themselves and their motivation in voting to obscure the issue.

SLAPP in the face

Dear Editor:

The community should be thankful that The Pine Cone's Dec. 6 issue published Mr. Noel Mapstead's callous remark that "I could care less whether Highway 1 is widened or not," and exposed his scorn for the plight of the area's traffic problems.

The politicians and government agencies which have listened to his condemnation of the Hatton Canyon highway improvement project, should now realize he is an extremist who would protect plant and animal life at the expense of the safety, health, and welfare of his fellow citizens.

The Carmel City Council should be alarmed that they have sought Mr. Mapstead's advice regarding the area's traffic problems.

As a responsible public entity, the Sierra Club should question its wisdom of continuing to retain Mr. Mapstead on their transportation committee.

The Pine Cone editorialized in the same issue that lawsuits could hold up construction of the Hatton Canyon Freeway "for years."

A prominent citizen in our community made the observation in one of his commentaries that "The use of courts as an obstructional weapon to thwart majority will...is a corruption of due process."

A weapon to combat this type of legal terrorism is now appearing in our courts, known as Strategic Lawsuits Against Public Participation (SLAPPs). Since 1983, nearly 2,000 SLAPPs have been filed against individuals, community groups, and grassroots organizations, all because these critics brought environmental lawsuits and complaints before govenment agencies.

The Sierra Club has been SLAPPed at least five times.

Anyone interested in more details could contact George Pring and Penelope Canan at the University of Denver, who have made a study of SLAPPs.

How much is a tree worth? Plenty if city council OKs ordinance

By FRANK GEORGE

How much is a tree worth to the City of Carmel?

According to the city council and the Forest and Beach Commission, trees are a public asset and the removal of an old growth Monterey pine from city property could set you back as much as $24,000. The council is considering an ordinance that would allow the city to charge residents who remove trees from city lands.

Gary Kelly, city forester, brought the proposal before the council at its Dec. 4 meeting.

The ordinance request is in response to discussion at an Oct. 30 Forest and Beach Commission meeting. There, it was disclosed that the commission approved the removal of 27 trees from public property in the past two years. Most were cut down to provide access to new houses.

"Faced with paying for the tree's value, contractors may opt for designing structures that do not affect trees on public property," the staff report in the council packet reads.

"This is to discourage the wanton removal of the city's trees," said Dr. Roy Thomas, chairman of the commission. He said in the past, the commission would allow builders to remove trees if they planted new ones elsewhere. The builders only had to pay the cost of cutting down the tree.

Thomas said this policy would often lead to the removal of trees even if it was possible to build around them.

The commission did that "to make life easier for the applicant," Thomas said. Many times neighbors would later complain about the missing trees.

The revenue collected from the fees would be used to fund Forest and Beach Department programs. The fee structure is based on an International Society of Aboriculture formula. Kelly said based on the formula, 110-foot high Monterey pine might be valued at $24,000, while a 10-inch diameter tree would require a $750 fee.

A deduction table based on species, condition and so forth would be used, so an acacia tree would hold a lower value than a Monterey cypress, Kelly said. The six deductions on the table range from zero to 90 percent.

The council approved the concept of the ordinance at the Dec. 4 meeting, but exceptions would be granted to those who have no other place to lay their driveway or walkway. The commission will again discuss the ordinance at its Jan. 29 meeting, and decide which species merit charging a fee.

'This is to discourage the wanton removal of the city's trees.' – Dr. Roy Thomas

Thomas said the ordinance will then be brought before the council at a future meeting.

Councilman Bob Fischer was the lone dissenter in the 4-1 approval of the concept, saying he really didn't care for it.

"I think we'd be the only community in the country doing anything like that and I don't see the need for it," Fischer said.

Currently, Monterey cypresses, Monterey pines, coast live oaks and redwoods are protected under ordinance in Carmel.

Hatton Canyon hikes led by Noel Mapsted

Hikes through the Hatton Canyon area will be led every Sunday until the end of the year by Carmel environmentalist Noel Mapsted.

Mapsted will discuss the natural diversity of the canyon, including the native Monterey pine stands, wetlands and habitat of Hickman's onion. The walk will entail the entire proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway route.

Participants should meet at 11 a.m. behind the Bank of America on Rio Road (next to Baker's Square restaurant), to carpool to Carpenter Street where the hike will start.

The hike goes one-way down Hatton Canyon, all downhill for about 2.5 miles. Hikers should wear boots or sturdy shoes and bring a bag lunch. The hike, which should be over by 2 p.m., will take place rain or shine.

The hikes are free and sponsored by the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club.

Dates for the hikes are: Dec. 16, 23, and 30.

Carmel building trades will be hit hard by ban

By FRANK GEORGE

REPRESENTATIVES FROM Carmel's building industry say the impending moratorium on water hook-ups is causing contractors to "pack up their trucks and tools and leave."

Saying "moratoriums have a way of hanging around," Carmel developer Chris Tescher said the Jan. 1 suspension could essentially eliminate his business. He said since the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's ordinance will prevent homeowners from increasing their water use, even addition and remodeling jobs will be scarce.

'The peninsula no-growth people are definitely getting what they want (with the moratorium). I hope it doesn't devastate too many people though.'

— Rick Rowan

"When things get bad, they have 'pull up the drawbridge' mentality," Tescher said of the district's board of directors.

The board approved a first reading of the moratorium on Nov. 5 after determining 16,744 acre feet would be the safest yield for the peninsula water supply. The new Cal-Am Water Co. production limit leaves no room for additional hook-ups.

The restriction will probably be formally adopted after a second hearing at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 13 at Seaside City Council Chambers. Angry contractors and their families packed the Steinbeck Forum at the Monterey Conference Center during the first reading Nov. 5.

Tescher complained the district has been in existence for 12 years, yet they've done nothing but "take money and expand into a huge bureau that can't increase our water supply." He said although funding has been collected from the connection charge on water bills, the peninsula still doesn't have a major dam.

Tescher claimed the board chose to pass the moratorium because contractors are "vulnerable politically." He said the directors' motives for curtailing new permits were "probably 60 percent political, 30 percent emotional and 10 percent common sense."

The board should instead put limitations on golf courses, hotels and restaurants, Tescher said. (Under a Nov. 8 ordinance, the 13 peninsula golf courses are bound to cutting their water use back 23 percent from the amount they used in 1987, which was the first year of the drought. All other Cal-Am water users are committed to reducing their use by 20 percent.)

Tescher also advocates greater rationing as well as stricter limitations on new hook-ups. Prior to the moratorium, a Jan. 22 ordinance limited the water available to new construction at 110 acre feet annually. Tescher said that number could be further reduced to 75 acre feet.

Although he admitted there is a serious water shortage on the peninsula, Tescher said builders with thousands of dollars invested in the planning process should be allowed to complete their projects. He said the money and the drawings are now "just sitting there."

On the other hand, Dick Heuer, chairman of the water board, said the directors had to place the moratorium on the building industry.

"Who else are you going to put it on?," Heuer asked. He said builders are the only group that increases water use.

Heuer said areas served by the district (including Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel, Seaside, Del Rey Oaks and unincorporated county areas), will have to "make the painful adjustment of living within our water supply."

He said the moratorium will not burden builders indefinitely, since it should be lifted when a new Seaside well comes on line or when the peninsula gets a substantial amount of rain.

The district estimates the Peralta Avenue well will produce 1,000 acre feet of water per year. Heuer said the latest figures show the well should be pumping water to peninsulans by next June.

The district has $5 million in the connection charge account, Heuer said. He said the money will be used as soon as state and federal agencies approve a new dam.

The district is currently banking on a 24,000-acre-feet storage capacity dam. The New Los Padres Dam would be located upstream from Carmel Valley Village, and a land swap recently approved by Congress and President Bush paved way for construction of the facility, which may take up to 10 years to comlete.

Be that as it may, Rick Rowan of California Remodelers said his business is off 60 to 70 percent since the water board began discussing the moratorium on Oct. 22. He said he used to have a 12-man crew, but now he's down to himself and two other men.

"I think it stinks," Rowan said of the restriction. He said everyone from tile workers to auto mechanics will suffer finacially from the restriction.

Asked how auto mechanics could get pinched by the moratorium, Rowan said, "If (contractors) can't afford to have their cars fixed, they're going to fix them themselves." He said restaurateurs will also be financially harmed because construction workers won't even be able to take their families out to dinner.

Saying people on the peninsula want to maintain the outdoor lifestyle they've always enjoyed, Rowan theorized the moratorium could simply be another way of eliminating growth. He said local governmental bodies use traffic, sewage and water problems as vehicles to limit growth.

"The peninsula no-growth people are definitely getting what they want (with the moratorium)," Rowan said. "I hope it doesn't devastate too many people though."

Rowan said some of his friends in the industry have heard there is a housing boom in Oregon. He said he heard the houses are cheaper, the cost of living is less and there are fewer building restrictions up there.

'The way we're starting out, this could not only be a drought year — it could be a disaster year.'

— Dick Heuer

"Most of the guys are leaving the area quite literally. I mean, even their phones are disconnected," Rowan said.

Rowan strongly supports the idea of building a large dam on the Carmel River. He said people in his trade would "breathe easier" if the district gets a water supply that won't drain up the Carmel River aquifer.

The drought could last five or six years, Rowan said, but eventually rain will make the river flow all the way to the Pacific Ocean again.

Heuer isn't that optimistic yet.

"The way we're starting out, this could not only be a drought year — it could be a disaster year."

Carmel safe again from ravages of live entertainment

By FRANK GEORGE

WITH THE city council's Dec. 4 decision to not allow karaoke singing in a local Japanese restaurant, the city is once again safe from live entertainment.

The ban on live entertainment began back in 1930, when Carmel's city fathers prohibited the playing of musical instruments in drinking establishments. After the prohibition, the founders had learned they couldn't prevent the Alcohol Beverage Control Board from issuing liquor licenses, so they decided if Carmel had to have taverns, at least they would be quiet ones.

'If we do something superficially laudable, that opens the door. Then some smart lawyer will open the door all the way... look at Seaside, all kinds of things go on there that are called live entertainment.'

— Gunnar Norberg

The restrictions expanded. Dancing and jukeboxes were prohibited from local lounges as well. Records show the dancing ordinance was last amended in 1963, while recorded music "that members of the public can control or manipulate" was amended in 1972. Only radios and televisions were allowed in village saloons.

But, in 1973, a small rebellion occurred. The Musicians Association of Monterey County Local 616 took the City of Carmel to court, claiming the ordinances were unconstitutional.

Unfortunately for the musicians, a Monterey Superior Court judge did not agree. The musicians had to take their guitars and keyboards out of the city limits.

After that, a 30-year-old classical guitarist named Stefani Mistretta walked into a Carmel cafe in 1979 and started strumming soft chords for a mesmerized audience. Mistretta and former Carmel City Councilman Howard Brunn teamed up to give the live music laws a second challenge. Brunn even signed a petition stating he was willing to modify the laws on a trial basis.

Nevertheless, in Mistretta's own words, "the (rest of the) city council would have nothing to do with it."

Former mayor Gunnar Norberg said in a 1979 Pine Cone article, "If we do something superficially laudable, that opens the door. Then some smart lawyer will open the door all the way... look at Seaside, all kinds of things go on there that are called live entertainment."

Therefore, the ordinance remained intact,

'We're probably the only community in the whole state that doesn't allow live entertainment.'

— Bob Fischer

challenged once in a while, and, once again, was upheld on July 25 of this year.

On that day, the planning commission denied Hirofumi Ichimaru's request to feature karaoke at Hamaichi Japanese Restaurant on the southwest corner of Dolores and Fifth. The live music law's latest challenge was an open-mike form of entertainment popular in Japan where would-be Sinatras and Streisands are accompanied by recorded music sans the vocal track.

Ichimaru appealed the commission's decision to the city council, which resulted in the Dec. 4 denial of the appeal. At the latest hearing, when Ichimaru's lawyer, Bob Uemura, said karaoke could not be considered "live" entertainment, he was told by Mayor Jean Grace that she didn't understand what "dead entertainment" would be.

Grace concluded that since the singers would presumably be alive, karaoke could be considered live entertainment, which is forbidden in the city.

Councilmembers Jim Wright and Ken White concurred with Grace's position.

On the other hand, Councilman Bob Fischer, who along with Councilwoman Barbara Brooks dissented in the 3-2 denial, said the statutes maintain a double standard. He said while live music is not allowed in eateries and nightclubs, Carmel hotels with bars can hire bands for private parties.

"We're probably the only community in the whole state that doesn't allow live entertainment," he said.

Fischer said in the 30 years he worked for the police department, he only recalls one or two occasions where he had to ask musicians to stop playing at a village bar or restaurant. He remembered one call he got from Sade's on Ocean and Lincoln.

"I didn't like doing it, but it had to be stopped," Fischer said.

He said music coming out of Carmel clubs should be controlled by the city's sound ordinances. Music played in non-drinking establishments (which is allowed), is governed by decibel levels, Fischer said, so should music being played in drinking establishments. The current laws are "grossly unfair," he added.

Ballot arguments against 40 percent FAR due 12-21

By FRANK GEORGE

THE DEADLINE for filing arguments against the 40 percent floor area ratio (FAR) measure is 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 21.

The arguments should be submitted to Jeanne Brehmer, city clerk, at Carmel City Hall on Monte Verde Street and Seventh Avenue.

Under the state elections code, Brehmer must select only one pro and one con rebuttal for the ballot. The arguments shall not exceed 250 words.

Also under the code, the city council's argument receives precedent on the ballot, meaning the field is limited to arguments in opposition of the measure. The council motioned to submit a rebuttal in favor of the measure.

Mayor Jean Grace and Councilman Bob Fischer were in the minority in the Dec. 4 split decision. The pair also opposed a motion selecting Councilman Jim Wright to author the council's argument.

The exact wording on the ballot is:

"Shall the General Plan of Carmel-by-the-Sea and Ordinance No. 90-08 specify that 'Building intensity in the single-family residential area may not exceed a 40 percent floor area ratio...?"

The March 5 special election will coincide with the Carmel Unified School District's parcel tax vote, as well as the Monterey city and Monterey Unified School District elections.

If approved by Carmel voters, the parcel tax would levy an annual fee on each parcel in the district. The fee would pay for improvements on school buses, roofs and parking lots. It would also fund the removal of asbestos from classroom ceilings.

The General Plan currently lists the FAR for 4,000 square-foot single family dwellings in the residential district at 45 percent. Councilwoman Barbara Brooks brought up the 40 percent idea last July during arguments for a residential design review ordinance.

The council approved the ordinance with the 40 percent standard in August, but under intense pressure from a divided community, it opted to let the public decide if the General Plan should be changed to reflect the 40 percent FAR.

Brehmer said voter approval of the General Plan amendment would finalize the question, while denial would bring the issue back before the council.

The election will cost the city between $8,000 and $10,000. The money will be drawn from city election funds, which the council appropriated at the biennial budget meeting in September.

Carmel developer Chris Tescher (in a Nov. 22 Carmel Pine Cone article), said Carmel realtors and developers may put their own referendum before the public if the 40 percent FAR passes. He said this second special election could cost the city twice as much as the first one.

Polling booths will be within Carmel city limits, and they will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on election day. Voted ballots will be counted at the Monterey County Election Department at 201 Main St. in Salinas. Tallying begins at 8 p.m., and the public is invited to attend.

Supes seek better way to process building permits

By DAVID LELAND

MONTEREY COUNTY supervisors this week directed county counsel to return in January with a method to better process building applications during the water moratorium, which takes effect next year.

While the county planning department cannot, under law, refuse applications, by continuing to accept paperwork the process could become mired in bureaucracy.

"To continue to accept applications is a disservice to the applicant," said 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who also serves as the board's representative to the water district.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's moratorium on granting new water hook-ups takes effect Jan. 1.

The supervisor said she feared that by processing new applications, which have no hope of winning approval because of the water shortage, the planning department may be on its way to opening a Pandora's Box.

"Right now there is nothing, but in a little while there will be a little bit (of water)," said Strasser Kauffman, referring to plans for a well in Seaside slated for operation this spring. "People who currently have applications should be first in line when the moratorium is lifted."

Bob Slimmon, county Planning & Building Department director, told the board that his staff will process applications and present them to the planning commission, which will likely turn them down because of lack of water.

First District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck charged that such an arrangement puts a burden on the already belabored planning staff.

County Counsel Ralph Kuchler, who will bring recommendations back to the board in early January, suggested that one alternative to granting applications when the moratorium is lifted would be to hold a lottery.

Supervisors did not comment on that suggestion.

What the board did comment on, however, was the news that the water allocation for the unincorporated area of the county will likely be lowered next year.

That revelation came on the heels of news that the county had done an admirable job of allocating its own water supply.

"The low percentage of water allocation use reflects the successful public participation in water conservation and rationing programs implemented by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and the county," said Juliana Rebagliati, county planner.

Of the 6,111.2 acre feet alloted to the county by the water district at the beginning of the year, 2,344 acre feet (38 percent) still remained as of October.

"I can't understand how you (water disrict) can take water away from our allocation," said 4th District Supervisor Sam Karas.

Strasser Kauffman told Karas that previous allocations to jurisdictions were "estimates and exceeded water available on the peninsula."

But an angry Shipnuck said she still believed the county is being short-changed.

"The county could have allocated to programs that we chose not to," she said, referring to tough environmental standards imposed by the board. "We went through a very careful process before we began allocating water for each project."

She questioned the logic of the water district.

"The county should not be penalized for having planned carefully," she said.

Despite serving as one of the policy makers for the water district, Strasser Kauffman agreed with her peers.

"There's no question in my mind that the county has been the most responsible agency," she said.

'Right now there is nothing, but in a little while there will be a little bit (of water). People who currently have applications should be first in line when the moratorium is lifted.'

— Karin Strasser Kauffman

She added that the water district must take into account that the county receives water for vacant lots of record.

The unincorporated area also should be alloted more water per hook-up because lots are larger and, except for Pebble Beach, the weather warmer than cities on the peninsula.

Abalone Club is back and doing good deeds for city, charities

By FRANK GEORGE

FOR THOSE who didn't already know, the Carmel Abalone Club is back.

This 21-years-old-and-over social group traces its roots to a post-World War I softball association, which was known as the Abalone League. The earlier club added their own rules to their co-ed softball games, and sculptors, poets and artists rounded out the membership list.

Today, the 200-plus Abalone Club is a charitable social group involved with events such as the AT&T golf tournament and Clint Eastwood's Spaghetti Western barbecue fund-raiser. Eastwood himself is an honorary member of the society, as are Mayor Jean Grace and former mayor Barney Laiolo.

The club meets at 5:30 p.m. on the second Wednesday of each month at Great Western Bank on Seventh and Dolores in Carmel. They often hold mixers and volleyball tournaments when not involved with charitable work.

Maxine Jennings, club advisor, said she started the group in 1986 for people who were too old for the Carmel Youth Center or too young for the Carmel Foundation.

Jennings said the group was first known as "The Over 21 Club," but oldtimers told her about the Abalone League, which folded around 1938. The seniors said her group's activities are a continuation of the earlier league's upbeat spirit.

The club operates under the auspices of the Carmel Recreation Commission, which Jennings also belongs to. She said Abalone Club members learn about the needs of Carmel by participating in local charitable events.

Voluteers from the club sell food and coffee at the AT&T as a fund-raiser for the Carmel Youth Center. They assisted in food serving and cleanup at past Spaghetti Westerns, which also benefitted the youth center.

The club has two mixers in the works, one will be held Jan. 16, 1991 at Hamaichi Japanese Restaurant on Dolores and Fifth, and the other will be held sometime next spring at Mission Ranch on the south end of Dolores Street.

Jennings said Abalone Club meetings are more like parties themselves, adding that club dues are only $10 per year. She said the group wants to pick up on the softball tradition starting next summer.

Asked why they hadn't previously played softball like their Roaring '20s counterparts, Jennings explained the beach and volleyball looked "just too attractive" when the club first formulated.

Jennings said local attorney Tom Nash is also an honorary member of the society. Last spring, Nash assisted the group by successfully defending it from a state Alcoholic Beverage Commission claim.

Jennings said the Abalone Club was taking $2 donations at the door at one of their mixers, and ABC representatives claimed they were selling beer.

Aside from helping out at the golf tournament and the youth center barbecue, the club is also involved with the Monterey Concours d'Elegance and the Kiwanis Club Silent Auction at the Pine Inn.

Aside from the mayors, Eastwood and Nash, Virginia Burke, Gary Duffel and Bud Allen are all recognized by the Abalone Club. Burke was a founding contributor to the organization, and Duffel manages Great Western Bank, where the group meets. Allen has provided refreshments for the club, as well as the use of his restaurant, Bud's Pub on Dolores and Sixth.

Jennings said membership dues go toward publicity costs and the purchase of food and refreshments for the mixers.

The group's first function was mixer held at the Mission Ranch in July 1987.

Special class helps foreign students learn English

By DAVID LELAND

IF LANGUAGE is the medium of learning, the process must be doubly difficult when the curriculum is taught in a language other than your own.

Under the tutelage of Dr. Jo Brazell, nine students struggle daily at Carmel Middle School to master English, while attempting to keep up on reading, writing and math.

Brazell, who has taught at the middle school since 1965, is a tough taskmaster as she leads her students through their daily 50-minute chores.

"Don't give me 'hay carumba,' " she chides one Latino student, who is attempting to identify a paper punch in English.

Brazell – who is joined in her task by middle school French teacher Judy Doby, who instructs non-English speaking high school students – uses her limited Spanish, sign language and pictures to convey ideas.

Students involved in English as a Second Language at the middle school hail from Brazil, Indonesia, Japan, Sweden and Latin America.

"The idea is to assimilate the English Language into other classes," said CMS Principal Karl Pallastrini.

Less than halfway through the school year, Brazell says she is quite pleased with her student's development.

"Considering that none of the kids could say yes or no at the beginning of the year, we've done fairly well," said Brazell, adding that the there is a friendly competition existing in the classroom through peer pressure. "There's a lot of intimidation that goes on."

At the students' young age, it is amazing how rapidly a new language can be acquired.

When Ito Atsuhito, 12, nicknamed "Ato" came to this country from Japan a year ago he spoke virtually no English.

Today, he is an honor student reading at a fourth-grade level.

His case is not unique.

"It's (learning) a little bit difficult," said Sylvia Suwono, who moved to the peninsula from Indonesia in August. "Sometimes I don't understand what they say."

Nevertheless, Suwono, who said she wants to be an architect when she grows up, is reading at a fifth-grade level.

As with the majority of the children, her principal problem is not reading but comprehension.

"I can read but I don't understand," she said.

Brazell also instructs the students in mathematics and reading, while electives, which most often require less of a need for language skills, are taken with other teachers.

Brazell said students receive extra benefits by attending school with an eclectic blend of pals.

"They're teaching each other their own languages," said Brazell, adding that she offers prizes at the end of each week to reward tenacious students. "This is fun, too."

Resident seeks ways to preserve his Comstock house

By FRANK GEORGE

ALTHOUGH SOME Carmel homeowners may be doing otherwise, Jon R. Hagstrom is fighting to preserve his 749-square-foot Hugh M. Comstock home.

Hagstrom is worried his employer, U.S. Air, may transfer him to another area. But rather than selling the cottage when he relocates, he wants to keep it and market the other house on his 6,600-square-foot lot.

This involves dividing the Casanova and Palou Street parcel in two, which would create a nonconformity, since 4,000 square feet is the minimum lot size allowed in Carmel.

Hagstrom's case will be heard at the planning commission's Wednesday, Dec. 12 meeting, but planning director Diane White said "there's no vehicle" for Hagstrom to split the lot. She said he might try to get the cottage designated under the Village Preservation District, which protects historically valuable Carmel buildings.

According to information received from Hagstrom, the other small home on the parcel might also be worth saving. Jack London purportedly built its fireplace when he stayed there during the early part of the century, Hagstrom said.

Nevertheless, Hagstrom doesn't want his cottages under the Village Preservation District. He said restrictions would be put on them, making them less attractive to prospective buyers. He also said he would have to sell both houses if he followed White's advice.

Hagstrom's Comstock house was named The Sunwise Turn Cottage when it was constructed in 1929. Hagstrom bought it and the older small house three years ago. Aside from numerous interior improvements, he painted them and installed drip-irrigation in the drought-tolerant garden he planted.

Hagstrom said due to the meticulous and costly work he put into the Comstock, he wants to see it preserved even if he has to sell it.

Two developers have approached him for the property since he purchased it, Hagstrom said, adding "the dirt is worth more than the houses are."

"I told them I didn't want to sell," Hagstrom said. He said he would be happy to put restrictions on the other cottage that would preserve it as well if the planning commission allows him to divide his property.

Hagstrom captains large passenger planes for a living, and he came close to being transferred three times since he moved to Carmel. He said if he can't sell his houses within 90 days after he is transferred, U.S. Air will buy it from him and leave it on the market.

"I'm sure they won't care what happens to it if they get it," Hagstrom said. He pointed out a large two-story house would provide a considerable ocean view from his property.

Hagstrom said estimates show the division would put the Comstock on a 2,200-square-foot parcel, while the other home would sit on 4,000 square feet of land, making the lot a legal size. He said there is a precedent for lots as small as the Comstock's would be, because the parcel next door is 2,300 square feet. A city-owned strip at the west end of Hagstrom's property would create a 9,000-square-foot lot if it were added to the two new sections, Hagstrom added.

Hagstrom said he polled roughly 70 of his neighbors on the split, and all favored it. He did not approach two of them though, because he said he is on bad terms with one of them and the other one is City Administrator Doug Schmitz.

"I didn't want it to look like a conflict of interest," he explained. He said his proposal would not cause any environmental impacts on his block, nor would there be any affect on parking in the neighborhood.

Hagstrom said one small Comstock home was valued at $300,000 three years ago, and John Warren of Ocean Avenue Realty said a 1,600-square-foot Comstock is now on the market for $699,000.

In 1924, Hugh W. Comstock built his first trademark cottage for his wife and named it Hansel. The original Comstock was constructed to house Mayotta Comstock's Otsy-Totsy dolls, which were seated, stacked and strewn all over the cramped story-book dwelling. Comstock continued to erect the mini-houses until 1930.

Today, 19 of the original Comstock-style cottages still stand within the Carmel city limits.

"I would say the Comstock is one of Carmel's most recognizable icons," Hagstrom said.

COMING OF AGE

By Jennifer Dyer

The Academic Decathalon

THE SCENE was set: Hartnell College had neatly readied their modern cafeteria for our arrival: rows of laminated tables waited within the airy, wood-paneled space.

We filed inside warily, surreptitiously checking out the competition. The air was static with pent-up energy as we sharpened our No. 2 pencils and settled our restless frames into inflexible chairs and propped sleepy chins on bony elbows. We booted up our grey cells like cold Apple computers in the early morning sunlight shifting its way inside through the wall-to-wall glass windows of the eastern side of the building. It was 8 o'clock in the morning on Saturday, Nov. 17, and six schools were competing in the 1990 Monterey County Academic Decathalon at Hartnell College in Salinas.

Before the day was done, Carmel High had eclipsed its previous record of 13 medals and gathered awards in eight of the nine categories. The new team record was 23 medals, the result of the efforts of nine seniors who particiapted on three academic levels according to accumulated grade point average. We won five medals in math; four medals each in science, interview, and history; three medals in literature; and one medal each in essay, fine arts, and speech. In the end, the Carmel High team brought home nine first-place gold medals, four second-place silver medals, and 10 third-place bronze medals. We made quite a showing.

But we still lost. North Salinas dominated for the sixth year in a row, behind the frivolous presence of their special class specifically designed for competing in the Academic Decathalon. Carmel High is not so lucky. We came in second behind North Salinas but before four other schools without any real prior preparation and only the minds we were given. We came in second, just barely. We lost in name, but not in spirit. One of these days, we will tip North Salinas from their pre-packaged throne and go on to the state competition.

English teachers Robert and Norma Walch guided the team to its spectacular finish. With only a week of after-school sessions and a couple of lunch-time meetings under our belts, the Walches provided the support and encouragement, as well as the Winchell's doughnuts, that we needed to give North Salinas a run for their money.

Other high schools that competed were North Monterey County, Alisal, Salinas and Monterey, The decathalon was open to any school in the area that wished to compete, but only six participated this year. Next year's event should be something to see. Every year, Carmel gets a little closer, and one day soon, we will beat North Salinas and go on to the state competition. Until then, we can be proud of our new record and the efforts of this year's group of seniors.

Redescover Carmel this Christmas

The quaint streets of Carmel-by-the-Sea will once again be festively decorated for the Christmas holidays, with the traditional Christmas tree lighting scheduled for Friday, Dec. 14 at 6 p.m. The Carmel High School Band will play prior to the lighting ceremony and neighborhood caroling groups will lead the chorus in front of the Carmel Plaza on Ocean Avenue and Junipero. Of course, Santa Claus will make a special appearance!

Activities for children in Devendorf Park from 4 to 5:30 p.m. will precede the ceremony.

Distinctive Carmel shops are filled with unique gifts. Crowds are non-existent and a friendly spirit prevails. Parking limits have been extended to make shopping even more convenient.

Change in governors is good news for the environment

By DAVID LELAND

ENVIRONMENTALISTS ARE counting the days until state governor-elect Pete Wilson takes over the helm from Gov. George Deukmejian.

'Reliance on nuclear energy and increased oil production is an easy solution, but is also a dangerous one. Our nation's energy solution should concentrate on demand as well as supply.'

— Dan Haifley
— Save Our Shores

The change in leadership will end what many believe to have been two terms of continually fighting an uphill battle for environmental progress.

"We've had eight years of virtual desert in environmental issues under Deukmejian," said Dan Haifley, Save Our Shores (SOS) project coordinator. "The governor was simply not involved in coastal issues."

SOS is an oil information program, funded by grants from the City of Santa Cruz, other local governments and private sources, was formed in 1986 to coordinate efforts to protect the northern and central coasts from offshore drilling.

To that end, Haifley has been involved with the Monterey Bay Sanctuary; oil tanker spill prevention and response preparedness; local offshore facility laws; offshore oil leasing; and education.

Haifley has outlined five points which, he believes, are of critical importance to the state's preservation of its coastline.

He and other environmental representatives will present these points to Gov. Wilson shortly after he takes office after the first of the year.

Of importance are:

— Increasing the state-funded portion of the Coastal Commission, which Deukmejian attempted to derail while in office by drastically slashing funding.

By boosting monies, the Coastal Commission could restore enforcement of coastal violations, rather than relying on local jurisdictions to carry that burden.

With increased workers, the Coastal Commission staff could also dedicate more time to monitoring offshore oil drilling.

— The Monterey Bay Sanctuary. Under the proposal to form the sanctuary, the state governor has the ability to veto portions of the document's regulations and boundaries.

Haifley said it is critical that Wilson support boundaries that begin with the Farallone Islands in the north and extend south to San Simeon. Federal officials have recommended a somewhat smaller version of the sanctuary.

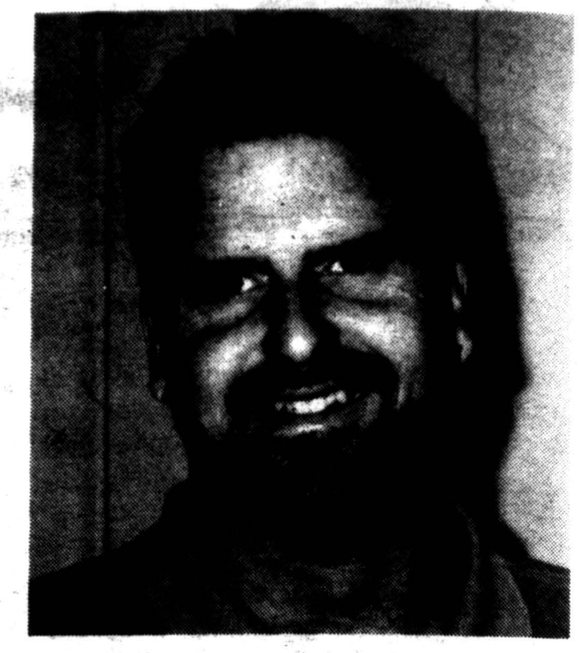
It is also important to keep tanker traffic far outside the sanctuary and to ensure that no offshore oil drilling will take place off the Monterey coast, he said.

— Stepping up the state's role in shaping the nation's energy policy.

"Reliance on nuclear energy and increased oil production is an easy solution, but is also a dangerous one," Haifley said. "Our nation's energy solution should concentrate on demand as well as supply."

Gov. Wilson needs to relay the message that California wants to pave the way in conserving energy, Haifley said.

"It appears that the Department of Energy wants to keep too many of our nation's eggs in the oil and nuclear power basket," he said. "That's a sure-fire formula for continued air and water pollution."



SAVE OUR Shores project coordinator Dan Haifley said environmentalists are set to meet and discuss environmental policies with Gov. Pete Wilson after he takes office. (David Leland photo.)

— The new governor must provide a legislative ban of planned offshore oil drilling in Southern California. The northern part of the state is protected under federal guidelines until the latter part of the decade.

— Oil tanker traffic must be regulated and criteria set for emergencies.

To that end, there should be a wildlife rehabilitation facility for the Montery Bay; radar monitoring of oil tanker traffic; and a tugboat moored in the area to escort tankers.

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

DRIVERS AND other volunteers are needed to deliver 200 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 200 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 22 volunteer drivers are needed daily to deliver those meals.

"We were seven drivers short the other day," said Poland, who has been pressed into service so often that he's driving almost daily now. "It means a lot to these people. You thank your lucky stars when you leave."

Poland said there are 22 routes, three of them in the Carmel area. One route usually takes from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (including driving to and from the pick-up point in Pacific Grove).

Each shut-in is delivered a breakfast, one cold meal (usually sandwich, salad and juice), and one hot meal. He added that volunteers are also needed to make sandwiches and salads at the Meals On Wheels facility at 700 Jewell Ave. in Pacific Grove.

Almost all of the help is from volunteers, Poland said, so often the agency ends up shorthanded. If you would like to volunteer to help out, contact Meals on Wheels at 375-4454.

Meals on Wheels is a non-profit organization.

Pledge for the future

"JOE" (left), an alumni of the Community Hospital Recovery Center's adolescent program joined Clint Eastwood and Joyce Schnal, president of the Community Hospital Auxiliary. The auxiliary recently donated $500,000, half of its record-setting pledge of $1 million, to the Recovery Center's Clint Eastwood Youth Program. Income from this endowment will pay for free or reduced-cost services for teenagers from families in financial need, enabling those who lack the financial resources or insurance to get help for drug and alcohol problems. Sponsored Care, a unique program set up by Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula, wants to "do something for the youth of our community, who are our future," said Schnal. This gift, combined with other recent changes in the adolescent program at the nationally recognized and respected treatment facility, serves to make treatment for chemical dependency even more accessible to those at an age where intervention is crucial. Earlier this year, the Clint Eastwood Youth Program, considered to be one of the 10 best in the country, switched its in-patient program to out-patient treatment because of shrinking coverage from major health insurance policies. The cost of treatment subsequently dropped from $18,000 to $4,500.

By Barbara March

Pick a name

SPEAKING FROM personal experience, when I'm in a crowded room and someone calls out, "Barbara," my head turns. I'm sure they're talking to me. And usually they are, because I'm the only Barbara around.

Barbara Murphy, owner of Portofino Cafe restaurant and cappucino bar, felt the same way until she moved across the bay to Pacific Grove five years ago. "I never encountered so many women named Barbara as I have since I've had my business here. They come in all the time," she said.

Wanting to see if this multiple Barbara phenomena was a merely a PaGrovian fluke, Murphy hosted a party at her establishment for all the peninsula Barbaras she could muster.

How did Ms. Murphy find them you ask? She ran an ad for two days in the "New Today" classifieds of the daily "H" paper. All totaled, 13 Barbaras answered her summons and convened to celebrate St. Barbara's Day. They came not just from PG, but Seaside, Carmel Valley and Carmel. Two brought their mothers and a couple of husbands tagged along.

Murphy encouraged participation and all the "B"s shared stories of their namesakes and nicknames. The moms fondly recalled, "Why we named you Barbara." All agreed Babs and Barbie are verboten as nicknames and Bobbie is saved for a precious few.

Barbara has never been a trendy name. How many children do you know named Barbara? Noel Mapstead's young daughter was the only one who came to the Barbaras' collective mind.

Exploring common threads, they tried middle names and found two Annes, two Roses, two Frances, a Suzanne, a Claire, a Delight and one who admitted her ex-husband always called her Pam. Barbara Haney confessed mischievously, "When I embarked on a second career, I got whimsical and now use the name Barbarina in my women's retail business in Seaside.

They were in their glory. Barbaras are sometimes aloof, until you get to know them, but Barbara Bown's brief kazoo performance and Barbara Honegger's St. Barbara Day prayer were the sparks that lit their fires.

Onlookers Will Wallace, Jay Campbell and Steve Sones felt the warmth. Will tipped his beret and greeted every woman who walked in (regardless of her name), with, "Hi Barbara!"

Barbara Murphy promised to do it again next year; so if your name is Barbara, mark Dec. 4, 1991 on your calendar. When you hear "Barbara!" across the room that night, you'll be in the majority!

CHRISTMAS PAST

Victorian houses were made for Christmas decorations. Newel posts candy-caned with garland and Baroque angels floating from antique chandeliers bring out the sugar-plum in everyone. "Christmas At The Inns," jointly sponsored by the Pacific Grove Art Center and the Pacific Grove Heritage Society enticed scores of local residents out for a brisk evening walk from inn to inn.

Starting with hors d'oeuvres at the Martine Inn strollers marched from B & B to B & B for what could be best described as a "progressive dessert." Parlors glowed with candles and tiny lights and night visitors nibbled Christmas cookies and sipped hot mulled cider as they peeked into more guest bedrooms than you can shake a cinnamon stick at. Turkish delight, Hollywood glitz, proper Victorian or Laura Ashley – innkeepers try to provide the venue for guests' fantasy trips.

From Queen Anne to Cape Cod, the goodies were hard to resist. Homemade toffee, gingerbread, peanut butter and oatmeal cookies kept sugar levels high. The pace quickened down Central Avenue as rosy-cheeked revelers hoped to walk off that last frosted gingerbread man. A few were seen jogging in place waiting to enter the Gosby House in downtown PG. One-two, one-two, keep that heart rate up, December has only just begun.

If you have visitors coming for the holidays, suggest that they stay at one of Pacific Groves' bed and breakfast inns. The grand Victorian ladies are at their finest at Christmas.

PEEPS

ONE of the Barbaras at the Portofino party shared news of a new book, The Name Game, that rates names based on perceived qualities such as success, morality, warmth and cheerfulness. The author, part-time peninsula resident Albert Mehrabian, a professor of psychology at UCLA, conducted a multi-staged statistical analysis over a period of five years and asked hundreds of subjects to rate names based on his criteria.

"Your name plays a major role in your personal public relations campaign," Mehrabian postulates. "Books parents use to choose a name for their baby only give historic meaning. This has little to do with how a name is perceived today."

How about Barbara, Dr. Mehrabian? "Barbara is average on success, above average on morality and very high on warmth."

The Barbaras snorted indignantly. "Average on success! His study is skewed!"

YOU read it here first. Can't use the name yet, but look for an international political figure to attend the AT&T Tournament coming up in January. And he won't be on the golf course.

ANN Lieberthal, wife of the President of Columbia Pictures, softened the blow of the big 40 for her husband Gary with a surprise birthday party at Stonepine recently. Picking up on the Scarlett O'Hara theme party idea originated by Noel Hentchel, Ann imported 12 of Gary's best friends, Columbia stars Blythe Danner and Tony Danza, staff writers and producers, makeup artists AND original costumes from Gone With the Wind for the boss.

By the time it was over Gary couldn't remember how old he was.

PEBBLE Beach resident Tibor Rudas, theatrical producer, entrepreneur and personal friend of Luciano Pavarotti, announced earlier this year that Pavarotti will perform at Robert Louis Stevenson School on March 17, 1991.

Rudas, whose name hasn't been a household word around the peninsula, at least until the big announcement, was asked how he felt about his local anonymity. Tibor laughed.

"That's nothing. When the students at RLS were told Pavarotti would be appearing at their school in the spring they said, 'Pavarotti who&' I can guarantee you, they will know who Pavarotti is when everything is over!"

OH CHRISTMAS TREE

"It's time to put up the tree!" Silver tips and blue spruce sprouting from car trunks and back windows signal the start of the holiday ritual that will be repeated in homes, offices and public places across the country in the coming days.

There is usually one tree expert in every group. This person painstakingly unravels and tests all the strings of lights, AND knows where the replacement bulbs are. They also remember where to find the tree stand. In the garage, behind the dog's bed, next to the collection of Rolling Stone magazines, of course.

Decorating done, dad is called in to place the angel on the top. Oh no, the tree's too tall, she squished on the ceiling! Dad mutters, goes out to his work bench and comes back with his hack saw. A minor adjustment is made and the angel spreads her wings.

MID VALLEY

It was a magic moment for the families and friends who were present at the Mid Valley Fire Station open house last Friday night when the 50-foot tree on Saddle Mountain was illuminated for the 27th time. Children scampered up and down the fireman's spiral stairs and sat wide-eyed in the fire engines while the adults enjoyed eggnog and cookies. And then, Fire Chief Gary Carmichael asked Tom Steiny to flip the switch. Steiny was voted the honor by the Mid Valley volunteers in recognition of his community service. He has given jobs at his Mid Valley Chevron Station to many local teenagers who have gone on to serve as fire volunteers in the area.

PEBBLE BEACH

"A winter wonderland." "A crowded afternoon on the ski slopes." Both comments describe the traditional arrival of Santa Claus at Holiday Open House at The Lodge. For those lucky enough to find a parking place, the snow covering the lawn in front of the retail shops put everyone in a holiday mood. Little ones visited with Santa and were entertained by musicians and magicians while adults watched the "First Annual Pebble Beach Ice Carving Classic."

THE VILLAGE

Santa blew into the Village, made a quick tour down Ford Road and landed at the community center for a photo-op last Saturday. Arriving by private plane, he greeted local community groups and declared the Christmas season officially open for valleyites.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

Still coming up is Carmel-by-the-Sea's downtown Christmas tree lighting Dec. 14 at Devendorf Park at 4 p.m. Santa Claus and Mayor Jean Grace will both make an appearance.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU

December marks the 65th birthday of the Carmel Woman's Club. Not just a little old ladies group, the club is one of the oldest and most community-minded organizations on the peninsula.

Recipients of the club's generous donations this year include the Carmel Foundation, Gateway, Salvation Army, Hospice, Meals on Wheels, Hidden Valley, Blind Services, Alliance on Aging, Red Cross, Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, Multiple Sclerosis, SPCA, Monterey County Symphony, Carmel Music Society, Carmel Chamber Music Society, and the YWCA. Whew!

In addition to a commitment of the welfare of the community the club also offers special programs twice monthly, a library for members and social activities.

On Dec. 17 at 2 p.m. the Carmel Woman's Club will present a program of Christmas music by guitarist Tim Robinson. His performance will relate to the history of early California. Robinson has been a frequent performer for the Monterey Historical Society, the annual Adobe Tour and the Heritage Festival for the city of Monterey. Non-members are welcome to attend this holiday program. For more information on call 372-2034.

Doris Day's Best Friends

By Doris Day

Best friends

I'M ALWAYS happy to have an opportunity to talk about my favorite subject – the animals – so you can imagine my delight when I was asked to write a column about my best friends! There's nothing I would enjoy more than sharing my thoughts about the four-leggers with you.

I'm hoping that my column will be informative, helpful, interesting, and thought-provoking. We'll talk about many issues relating to animal welfare and I look forward to hearing your thoughts as well. Please write to me with your comments or questions. I can't offer medical advice – you'll have to see your veterinarian for that – but I'll try to answer any other questions you may have.

Now, I guess you may be wondering when my devotion to the critters began. Actually, I can't remember a time when I didn't love them! After being involved with Actors and Others for Animals for a number of years, I decided in 1977 to follow my heart and establish my own organization, the Doris Day Pet Foundation. When I move to Carmel from Los Angeles, it seemed that the word immediately went out. People approached me with questions about pet problems, or asked for help in placing a pet, or asked for assistance in adopting a new pet. One person told another and before I knew it, I was running a Northern California branch of the DDPF right here in Carmel.

My work on our Monterey Peninsula has been very gratifying, and I'm thrilled and proud to have placed so many pets in great homes with fabulous owners. However, the problems are never-ending, the need is always great, but not just for permanent homes. We're always looking for loving foster homes to care for our orphans on a temporary basis. Foster parents provide a great service by working with our orphans to make them more placeable and by letting us know about their personalities and habits so we can make that perfect match with a permanent owner.

Our L.A. foster program is booming but here in Carmel it's been difficult. I know there are good people out there who would want to help and I hope they'll read this column. We provide $50 per month, per dog or cat, plus all medical expenses. This is a particularly nice situation for a senior citizen who may not be able to afford a companion. We've also worked with military families who can't have a permanent pet because they're transferred every few years. Believe me, it's a plan that benefits both the pet and the foster family.

For those of you interested in adopting a pet, we have dogs and cats, puppies and kittens, all sizes, shapes and colors, all spayed and neutered, all in good health. For openers, we would like to introduce you to a few of our "kids" who are available:

Please call us at 625-4017 if you're looking for someone to love. See you next time!

"HOPPS" – A Labrador/Shepherd, 1-and-a-half- year-old neutered male with all his shots – one of many Doris Day's best friends.

CAA collecting toys for kids

The Carmel Art Association again plans to collect donations of gifts, toys or clothes suitable for children under 12 years of age.

Gifts should be unwrapped and placed beneath the Christmas tree at the CAA galleries on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth avenues. The Salvation Army will collect the items on Monday, Dec. 17. Please bring the gift to the association by Sunday, Dec. 16.

DUFFY – A medium-sized Briard/Puli, 1-year-old neutered male with all his shots.

Give extra bags to Goodwill

Goodwill Industries is putting out a call for paper and plastic bags for use in their stores in Monterey and Santa Cruz counties. Grocery bags will be received at Goodwill stores and Attended Donation Stations throughout the area.

Free AIDS testing available

If you think you've risked contracting AIDS from sexual contact or sharing of IV drug needles, a free test is available to see if you have been exposed to the virus. The test is anonymous; you do not have to give your name.

Daytime testing in the Monterey Peninsula area will be offered Mondays and Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Health Department, 1292 Olympia (in parking lot of Broadway and Noche Buena), in Seaside. Appointments are required. For information or appointment call 899-8100.

In Salinas, the test is offered 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesdays at the Health Department, 1270 Natividad Road. For an appointment, call 755-4512.

Evening testing is available 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays at the Salud para la Gente Clinic, 10 Alexander St., downtown between East Beach and East Lake streets, Watsonville. For an appointment, call 728-0222.

FOREST FACTS

Friends of Carmel Forest, Post Office Box 344
Carmel-by-the-Sea, California 93921

OAKS ARE easy to grow and develop rapidly. Trees that best survive are the native trees that have evolved genetic traits favoring the local conditions of soil, moisture, climate, etc.

By planting acorns from local trees, you maximize chances for survival and minimize damaging local stock by introducing trees with poorly adapted genes.

Here's how to proceed:

1. Collect acorns in the fall from healthy vigorous trees in your neighborhood – from the tree or under it on the ground, choosing large acorns. Remove the cap if it is attached.

2. Soak acorns for one hour if picked off the tree or 24 hours if taken from the ground. Add 1/2 cup of bleach per gallon to the water. Discard any acorns that float or have holes, cracks or other defects. Dry the acorns on towels, newspaper or other absorbent material.

3. Pack the acorns in zip-lock plastic bags and place in refrigerator (not freezer) for at least a month. This should stimulate faster and more complete germination. Check the stored acorns occasionally for mold. If mold develops, repeat the soaking and drying and return to the refrigerator. Acorns can be stored in the refrigerator for several months.

4. After refrigeration, plant the acorn in the ground or in a container. (See Paragraph 6) When planting in the ground, choose a sunny, weed-free spot with well-drained soil. With a hand trowel or shovel, dig a shallow hole. Loosen the soil several inches under the hole and add a pinch of Miracle Grow. Plant the acorn sideways, one inch below the surface. Water lightly.

5. Water weekly until the seedling is well established. Do not over-water; this will cause the acorn to rot. After the seedling is established, watering two or three times during the dry season should be sufficient.

6. For container-grown seedlings, use a quart milk carton or similar container slit near the bottom for drainage. Fill with potting soil. Thoroughly moisten the soil and place on a saucer or pie tin. After plainting acorn, place the container near a window where it will receive adequate light.

7. Container-grown seedlings should be transferred to planting site when 3 to 4 inches high. Scrape a circle two feet in diameter around the seedling to remove other vegetation, thus eliminating competition for moisture. Placing some type of mulch around the seedling will also help conserve moisture and discourage competing plants.

For further information, call the Carmel Forestry Department at 624-3543 or write: Friends of Carmel Forest, P.O. Box 344, Carmel, CA 93921.

The Necklace

AUTUMN, FAMILIAR trees, sturdy oaks, majestic maples, regal elms, gentle liquid ambers, push forth vivid colors on their formerly green leaves: golds, magentas, oranges, yellows, all with a hint of brown, in a final splash of presence, before quietly, willingly falling to rest.

Autumn, beginning the dormant seasons, the time, several years ago, when my vivacious friend, Indira, went to rest.

Today I wear beads, her favorite necklace, a present to me on my January birthday. Wrapped haphazardly by her husband in a candy tin, I assume sweets therein. His insistance that I open the gift immediately, puzzles me. The surprise, truly mine, as I view silver and amethyst, beads delibertely strung in patterned order, much like the life of my friend. Order created during the latter part of her time, uneven beads collected throughout her many-chaptered life.

At first, Indira's necklace feels too heavy, almost painful around my neck. Maybe it misses its familiar resting place. I consider taking it to the ocean, allowing sea water to flow over it, but I place it without ritual with other jewelry and wait.

Memories of a friend no longer here, loss of the idea of a forever future, finiteness my new companion.

The silver and emethyst beads remain in the dark, to be admired privately, but not displayed. Once in a while, I pick them up, aware of their weight as I move the strand from hand to hand and then return it to its place on maroon velvet.

Occasionally, I wear this necklace. It is not an item to be worn lightly. It seems to call to me, beckons from my jewelery box on special days. Days not special by decree, but noteworthy in that a sense of aliveness, a "yes," exists around my being.

In the autumn, as I pass the house whose front door always opened cheerfully at my unexpected arrival, or when I viewed her crossed out name in my personal phone book, or as I plan a holiday gathering, I begin to regularly wear the silver and amethyst necklace and begin to believe that in the years since Indira's departure, maybe I am beginning to grow into the necklace and that it now enjoys its new resting place.

Carmel Valley history group seeks community support

By SUSAN BECK

CARMEL VALLEY'S heritage hinges on its residents' support.

'There is beginning to be a swell of support for our endeavor from local businessmen and residents.'
— Stewart Clough

"We have to know if we have the community behind us. It's the only way the Carmel Valley Historical Society (CVHS) will survive," said Stewart Clough, the society's president.

He said that the society is encouraging valley residents to write letters pertaining to the non-profit organization and its operation. Local input about the society will enhance the opportunity for the society to receive financial support from grants and Monterey Peninsula philanthropists.

One boost to the society's security, and its need for additional funds is the recent development concerning the former Bank of America building on the corner of Carmel Valley and El Caminito roads.

The building was built about 28 years ago, said Clough. It has been unoccupied for the past four years, but was recently purchased by Roy Woods, a Pebble Beach resident and real estate investor. The property was bought with a woodworking business in mind, however, the expense involved in bringing the building up to code to satisfy the Monterey County Planning Department was exorbitant, said Clough.

In the meantime, the CVHS has diligently endeavored to gather materials for their future archives. A museum and permanent archives were expected to be built within the next four years on a section of the Cooper Ranch land in Carmel Valley which was petitioned for this use through the Monterey Peninsula Regional Parks District.

Clough said that a year has gone by, and there is no sign of a permit for use of the Cooper Ranch property. With this in mind, he approached Woods about using the empty Bank of America building for cataloging archival material until the new owner decided what he wanted to do with the property.

Woods offered the society a chance to buy the property within six months. The historical society now uses the building for cataloging purposes. "He is not charging us anything. He pays all the bills," said Clough, and "the land is off the market."

CARMEL VALLEY's Historical Society may locate its future museum and archives in the former Bank of America building on Carmel Valley Road. Stewart Clough, the society's president, said that the building's lobby area is perfect for displaying artifacts. (Susan Beck photo.)

History society seeks support

Every day, George Dunkly from the Alliance on Aging works from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. cataloging papers, photos, and artifacts that were previously stored in several local garages.

The idea to pursue the building site for the society's future museum and archives center came about after a few CVHS meetings were held there. Clough and other members of the society began to realize the property's potential.

The building is right in the middle of the village, said Clough. It has several specially cooled storage areas, plus a large vault. There is an area for future researchers to review the society's material, and the front area is perfect for displaying museum artifacts, he said.

"We are collecting a history of Carmel Valley from the times of the Indians to now," said Clough. To ensure the safety of the collection, the CVHS wants to purchase and remodel the Bank of America building, at a cost of about $1 million.

Monies for the project will come from estate donations, grants, and individual pledges, said Clough. Once the financing is obtained, the society will ask for additional public input about what style to remodel the building so as to preserve the village's rural atmosphere.

"If the historical society buys the building, it will prevent its sale to a larger outside business that could be in competition with local businesses," said Clough.

He said the historical society wants to be in line with local businessmen. "There is beginning to be a swell of support for our endeavor from local businessmen and residents."

Letters and pledges can be sent to the Carmel Valley Historical Society, P. O. Box 1612, Carmel Valley, CA 93924. For more information about the CVHS, call 659-2411.

Seniors program needs participants

IN SEPTEMBER 1987 the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department began a program to benefit senior citizens of the community in two ways.

First, senior citizens who live alone and are often "shut-in" their residences with little or no contact with friends or relatives, can be provided with the security of knowing that someone does truly care about their welfare. Also, those concerned with their physical well-being will have someone to check on them daily.

Second, seniors interested in participating in some type of community program will be able to work with those in their own peer group by volunteering to place these daily telephone calls to the recipients of the program.

Currently, the department has a full staff of volunteers, however, anyone wishing to be placed on an alternate list to fill in when another caller is unable to make it or is away on vacation, is encouraged to call for information.

Anyone living alone, whether concerned about their health or not, and all those seniors wishing to make new friends or just have the opportunity to talk with someone new each day is encouraged to participate in this program.

Telephone calls are made daily by a volunteer beginning at 9:30 a.m. No participant is ever restricted to their home; they need only contact the police department in advance if they plan to be away during the time the calls are placed to avoid any confusion. If someone fails to answer their telephone, a patrol unit is sent by to conduct a welfare check at the residence.

In addition to these daily telephone "visitations," social events are also planned periodically as well as home visitations upon request.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this program should contact Desk Officer Cathy Dampier at Carmel Police Department, 624-6403.

FOR MISS WILLNER

A unique birthday party was given for Miss Gwyneth Willner by Mrs. Esther Teare at her residence, on Tuesday evening. It was a gathering of 12 bachelor maids.

The evening opened with a treasure hunt, with real treasures at the end of the trail. The cutting of the birthday cake, which contained a ring, a thimble and a three-penny bit, was followed by a mock marriage, the fair recipient of the ring acting as bride. Dancing, games and character reading brought the evening's party to a close.

DRUNK'S CIGARETTE ALMOST BURNS UP POLICE CHIEF'S CAR

If the chief of our fire department wants to sell a fire extinguisher, he might contact the chief of our police department, who is a "hot prospect."

The other day, our chief of police, Roy Fraties, was taking a prisoner over to Monterey in his car. The prisoner, who had been imbibing, was smoking a "roll your own" cigarette. Roy got him to the jail all right, but the seat in which the bibulous one had been sitting took fire from a glowing cigarette head dropped there. And when Roy came out, his car was blazing merrily. He pulled the cushion out and beat the fire into submission.

So if our fire department wants to sell a fire extinguisher –

KITCHEN SINK SCHOOL

Children learn valuable lessons from dishwashing time – if it is made pleasant with talk and laughter. Even though their help may frequently be doubtful and an occasional dish need a re-do, the kids themselves benefit by acquiring habits of cleanliness and cooperation which will last their lifetime.

And speaking of cleanliness, Americans are the cleanest people on the earth – they use more water per day per family than the people of any other nation. This heavy useage imposes a heavy responsibility upon the operators of public water supply systems as water must be plentiful, available at all times, and, above all, safe. To maintain a high standard of service, plant facilities must be expanded and improved continually to take care of increasing demands.

STORM CUTS POWER; RECORD WINDS HIT

Driving rains and gusts of wind up to 62 mph toppled trees and cut power to Carmel Valley and Carmel area homes in the season's first major storm Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 3 and 4.

Power outages affected 4,600 homes and businesses on the Monterey Peninsula. Hardest hit were Carmel, Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach, where some homes were without power for up to 26 hours.

Dear Editor:

I can't remember who said that friendship takes time but we have no time to give it. Is this the secret of our sending Christmas cards – the perfect season for keeping the path of friendship open no matter how we have neglected it during the year?

And our defrauded friendships gain back a little year by year when those cards contain a personal message no matter how short. A 10-cent card or a $5 card are equal when they carry a wave of the pen.

Students get message across to 'live, party, but drive drug free'

By SUSAN BECK

DRUGS AND alcohol don't mix with campus popularity.

The idea that a student won't be popular if they don't drink and smoke is not true, said Marc LaGoy, student body president at Carmel High School.

LaGoy's concern comes from the loss of a friend who died because of drugs. "It woke me up. I felt like I had to alert other students that there is a better way."

The National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week is Dec. 9-15, and LaGoy's message to students is, "live, party and drive sober and drug free." He reaches other students through the Monterey County Friday Night Live (FNL) program headed by Karen Jeffries, FNL coordinator.

The high school-based peer program started in 1989. The program's goal is to convince teens and young adults not to use alcohol and other drugs. High schools throughout Monterey County have campus chapters that are run by students, with support of a faculty advisor. The Carmel High School chapter started in October 1990.

The most important time to remind young adults about staying sober is during the holidays, said Jeffries, a staff member of the Monterey County Health Department.

"You can have a lot of fun with your own creative ideas while being sober and drug free. The idea is to create happy memories," she said.

The basic formula for activities held by campus chapters is 75 percent fun, with the remaining time devoted to getting the message across. The "live sober and drug free" message is taught through a learn-by-doing approach.

Financial support for FNL is provided by a grant from the State Office of Traffic Safety. Moral support comes from individual communities, law enforcement agencies and business leaders.

Mike Starr, public affairs officer for the California Highway Patrol, said that FNL is the best organization that he knows about for targeting teens and young adults concerning drugs and alcohol abuse.

The holiday season is a high risk time for alcohol-related car accidents. "Seatbelts are the single most effective way to reduce fatalities," said Starr.

'You can have a lot of fun with your own creative ideas while being sober and drug free. The idea is to create happy memories.'

— Karen Jeffries

He said that by involving young adults in an awareness program about drug and alcohol abuse reduces their willingness to drink and drive, and the message gets to their parents to at least "buckle-up."

Starr said that there is a greater social consciousness about driving sober. In 1990 auto-accident fatalities on the highways in Monterey County were reduced by 13 percent over the previous year.

"Some accidents are unavoidable, and the best offensive is a seatbelt," said Starr. The city of Monterey has the highest seatbelt usage rate in California, he said.

Drinking and driving will only get someone hurt, said LaGoy. When he talks to other students he is direct. "Listen guys. We are not bulletproof. Everybody is going to be hurt. Indirectly, I was hurt when my friend died."

LaGoy doesn't want to lose another friend. He realizes that he can't convince everyone but, he said, "even if one person is affected, I've done my job."

HOW THIS RAKE CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE.

This simple garden tool is a firefighter. It can help you clear away brush and leaves that act like kindling around your home. And you.

So if you live near the forest, do a little raking. And that's not all. Landscape your home with a fire retardant plant like ivy. Use spark arrester screens on your chimney and vents. And put fire retardant material on your roof and underneath your house where it is exposed.

Because a forest fire burns more than trees.

Remember. Only you can prevent forest fires.

PAMPAS GRASS ERADICATION SET FOR DEC. 16

The First Pampas Grass Eradication Day will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 16 starting at Nepenthe parking lot in Big Sur.

Escaping from gardens and bouquets, this hardy grass from Argentina has invaded the coast and threatens to choke out native vegetation. Noticeable because of its large spectacular plumes, Pampas Grass need little water and can grow in poor soil, making it relentless in taking over native vegetation, especially on the Big Sur coast.

Four team captains and a minimum of 54 "Pampas Busters" armed with picks, shovels, hoes and ginesta pullers are needed that day. Citizens of Big Sur, state park and Caltrans employees and the California Conservation Corps will join forces to eradicate the plants.

For more information, call 667-2679 or 667-2649.

DEL MONTE PROPERTY OWNERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

THRIFT SHOP'S ANNUAL LUNCHEON

The Monterey Community Thrift Shop will be holding their annual luncheon and party at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 19 at Rancho Canada, located one-half mile east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

A special donation of $1,500 will be given to the Salvation Army for their Christmas food baskets.

Local donations are given by the Monterey Community Thrift shops. Receiving $100 monthly are: Monterey County Braille transcribers; Monterey Senior Center; Hospice of the Central Coast; Meals on Wheels; YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula; YMCA of the Monterey Peninsula; Family Resource Center; Blind Service Center; and the Skill Center. Adopt-a-tree program

CARMEL MIDDLE School officials, in conjunction with landscape architect Richard Murray, are planning to plant 50 sycamore trees next January as part of the school's on-going beautification process. Shown here, CMS Principal Karl Pallastrini points to a map showing overall plans for enhancing the school's campus. Financing for the current $6,000 project comes from the Carmel Rotary Club and Carmel Unified School District. To promote further beautification of the school, however, the middle school is "selling" each sycamore tree for $50, which will raise funds for more landscaping and construction of an amphitheater. Those purchasing a tree will have their names written in a plaque commemorating the event. The actual tree planting will be hosted by the middle school student council and will include a barbecue and ceremonies. (David Leland photo.)

Birth mothers group meets every month

A BIRTH mothers support group meets once a month at the Childrens Services Center in Monterey.

Birth mothers are women who have given their children up for adoption; the group allows these women to share their feelings with others, according to Teri Livingston, who has been a member of the 2-year-old group.

"There are a lot of women out there...and there's a lot of pain involved," she said. "This gives them a chance to talk about it. We're not a search group, but we have information on it."

The support group meets at 7 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the center at 648 Pine Ave. in Pacific Grove. More information can be obtained by calling either Carol Bishop or Gayle Ward at Childrens Services Center of Monterey County, 649-3033.

SAM FARR ADDRESSES THE ISSUES WITH CARMEL KIWANIS

State Assemblyman Sam Farr spoke to a standing-room-only house at the Carmel Kiwanis Club luncheon Dec. 6 at the Pine Inn.

Club members, guests and public participants heard Farr describe the State of California as "the Mecca of the United States, " facing the pressures of growth which create both opportunities and problems. He discussed the problems of the California budget and demands for state services – such as schools, highways and environmental services – which suffer when demand exceeds revenue.

In addressing the growing problem of underfunded schools and latchkey children, Farr cited the fact that one out of every eight people in California is a child, and our children are suffering by comparison to programs in other parts of the country. According to a U.S. government report, which rated California at a "D" level, children in California are less likely to go to college, and more likely to grow up poor, facing teenage pregnancy and illiteracy.

"We must use technology to advance the community," said Farr. "Remember, they (the latchkey generation) will be running our community in the future."

Photo finish

FIRST-PLACE WINNERS in the Seventh Annual MPC Photographic Competition Joy Jennings Carr, black and white division, and Elfie Kluck, color, discussed their work by Kluck's photo of the Berlin Wall at Friday's opening of the competition's best at Evans Gallery at Carmel's Sunset Center. For more on the opening, turn to page 32.

In a lively question-and-answer session, Farr was questioned about the water management district board, saying he definitely feels the creation of that group was "the right move." The question of Prop. 140 and term limits for incumbents was addressed by Farr, and former debate partner Lee Chancellor, representing citizens for law and order, presented what he considered to be the opposing view.

Farr was given a round of applause and a return invitation by President Jeff Scott at the end of the luncheon.

Wish tags will be hung on the Christmas Trees located at the following banks through Friday, Dec. 14: Coast Federal Bank in Monterey and Salinas, Great Western Banks in Monterey, the Country Club Center in Pacific Grove, Main Street, Salinas and the Northridge Mall.

People are encouraged to take a tag which has a child's age, sex, and wish on it; buy a gift for the child, and take the wrapped gift with that tag attached back to the Bank's tree from whence they removed the tag.

POLICE LOG

Window hit by BB

A BB (not to be confused with former president Nixon's friend, Mr. Rebozzo), was shot through the window of Gallery Americana Monday, Dec. 10.

The BB hit the center of the window and splintered off, causing approximately 2 inches of damage.

The cost for replacing the vandalized window, located at Sixth and Lincoln, is unknown at this time. Police have no suspects.

Tire slashed

THE TIRE of a 1965 Ford Mustang was slashed in the area of Junipero and 10th, Dec. 4. No one reportedly witnessed the vandalism of the Carmel resident's vehicle and police have no suspects.

Next time use Zest!

A CARMEL resident left her home, located in the area of Lincoln and Ninth, for only 10 minutes between 3:30 and 3:40 p.m., on Dec. 5.

Upon arriving back, she noticed a "distinctly negative smell," according to police.

Investigating, she discovered that approximately $2,000 worth of silver flatware had been taken from her closet, although nothing else.

Police believe the probable suspect "may have been in the house when the resident returned home and escaped out the back door." Police say there was no evidence of a forced entry and have no suspects.

Backpack stolen

A LOCAL artist who was drawing a Carmel hotel on Dec. 8 at 5:30 p.m., had his backpack – with all his art supplies inside – stolen.

Deciding to get another view of the building, located at Junipero and Third, he left the black nylon satchel with items valuing approximately $1,000 on the ground and went about 50 yards away. When he returned, the bag was gone. No one was seen or heard. Police have no suspects.

VICTORIAN CHRISTMAS BENEFITS OMBUDSMAN PROGRAM

The Ombudsman Program will hold its second annual Victorian Christmas at the Old Gallatin Powers Estate, 817 Martin Street, Monterey, on Sunday, Dec. 16, from 5 to 8 p.m.

Guests are invited to tour the house and gardens and enjoy a candlelight buffet with selected wines. Valet parking will be provided. Reservations are $25 per person and may be made by calling 649-8558.

On this festive evening, the home will recapture the glow of a bygone era – aglitter with Christmas trees in the main rooms, prancing reindeer at window's edge, Victorian dolls in welcoming nooks, and the sound of chamber music echoing through the lofty rooms.

Built around 1892 by Gallatin Powers, an early prominent businessman, the house was restored in 1985 by its present owners, Dolores and Steve Gunia, who retained the original redwood panelled walls and beamed ceilings in the 40-foot library and the wood-burning stove in the kitchen. The remainder of the house has been renovated to reflect the grace and hospitality of a Victorian estate.

The Ombudsman Program investigates and works to resolve problems and complaints on behalf of residents in long-term care

The Doubletree management and staff will also be on hand to greet guests and enjoy the festivities.

REALTORS' CANDY CANES BENEFIT SENIORS AND BATTERED WOMEN

One of the most popular Christmas benefits staged every year in the Carmel area, the Christmas Candy Cane Project, is being held again this year for the ninth year in a row.

Sponsored by the Carmel Board of Realtors, the Candy Cane Project is a drive to obtain donations of inexpensive Christmas gifts to brighten the Christmas holiday for those who it would otherwise be a bleak day.

The beneficiaries are senior citizens belonging to the Carmel Foundation, and the YWCA's Emergency Shelter for battered women and their children. The project is chaired this year by realtor Susan Silver.

Carol Winningham, last year's co-chair who has been with the project since its inception in 1982, says: "I can't begin to tell you what this project means to the two organizations we serve. The people from the foundation and the YWCA have tears in their eys when we give them the presents we have collected."

Here's how it works: Gaily decorated baskets of peppermint candy canes are placed in the lobbies of nine Carmel-area banks, next to their Christmas trees. Each cane bears a tag suggesting a present to buy, costing under $5.

The bank customer buys and wraps the present, and brings it to the bank to be placed under the tree. Just before Christmas, all the presents are gathered up and given to the two beneficiary organizations.

The participating firms are: Coast Savings, Carmel, Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach branches; First Interstate Bank, Carmel and Carmel Rancho branches; Pacific Western Bank, Carmel; and Security Pacific Bank, Carmel.

"Last year," says Winningham, "the foundation had 96 seniors as guests for its annual Christmas dinner, and we had gifts for Santa to distribute to every one. They had a wonderful time.

"On the same day, a lady came from the YWCA to pick up our gifts for the shelter. We had enough to fill her station wagon. She said, 'I can't believe you folks are doing this for us.'"

Presents for seniors could be household items, coffee mugs, stamps, stationery, jams and jellies. Gifts for women and children – who often have to flee their homes on a moment's notice, taking nothing with them – could be cosmetics, toilet articles, and toys.

"The Christmas Candy Cane Project is unique to the Carmel area – and once again it will brighten what might otherwise be a sad Christmas for some of our neighbors," Winningham says.

HOSPICE RECEIVES USE PERMIT TO BUILD 28-BED CARE CENTER

Hospice of the Central Coast has received unanimous approval by the City of Monterey Planning Commission to build a 28-bed care center in Monterey, announced Judith Herrmann, president of Hospice.

The new center will replace the six-bed facility in Carmel Valley.

The Commission granted a use permit at its meeting on Nov. 13, allowing Hospice to move forward with its plans to build the care center on five acres of the Old Capitol Site near Del Monte Shopping Center. The land was donated by Pebble Beach Co.

Ground-breaking for the center is scheduled for May of next year. Construction is expected to take 12 months, and the approximate 28,000-square-foot care center will open in the spring or early summer of 1992.

A $5 million campaign to raise funds to build the center has been underway since 1988, and more than $4 million has been raised to date, according to Susan Freeland, vice-president of development for Hospice.

The new care center will have private rooms, including a pediatric unit and playroom, a chapel and family rooms, all designated with a home-like character.

Construction of the project will be independent of any plans Pebble Beach Co. has for the remainder of the property.

A nonprofit organization, Hospice of the Central Coast provides a total support system and health care program in the home for patients who have life-threatening illness and for their families. Its Resource Center in downtown Monterey offers information and referrals, support groups, and volunteer servics. The Carmel Valley inpatient care center is available when patients need intensive nursing support.

"Over the last several years, we have seen an increase in the number of patients from Salinas and the Salinas Valley," said Herrmann. "Having 28 beds will allow Hospice to care for a greater number of patients as the need for services continues to grow throughout Monterey County."

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

Drivers and other volunteers are needed to deliver 280 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 280 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 25 volunteer drivers are needed daily to deliver those meals.

Poland said there are 25 routes, four of them in the Carmel area. One route usually takes from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. (including driving to and from the pick-up point in Pacific Grove).

Each shut-in is delivered a breakfast, one cold meal (usually sandwich, salad and juice), and one hot meal.

Almost all of the help is from volunteers, Poland said, so often the agency ends up shorthanded. If you would like to volunteer to help out, contact Meals on Wheels at 375-4454.

Meals on Wheels is a non-profit organization.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

A farewell prayer

From the Dec. 16, 1982
Carmel Pine Cone

When I was growing up in Monterey over 70 years ago, I lived only two blocks from Tortilla Flats. Spanish or la lengua Castillana was spoken everywhere and today little by little the Spanish language is returning to California with the increase of the Hispanic-American population, both wet and dry-backs.

Today with real tears, not alligator ones, we bid a sad farewell to our premier paisano – Don Francisco Ledesma, el director de correos de Carmelo (that's postmaster to you huerros).

In his honor we have put together a Mexican barbecoa that in actual fact is a Gringo roast. I am told Rotarians only "roast" the men they admire.

Entonces we ask a special blessing and consideration for our ulcers as we partake of these frijoles calientes, enchiladas de queso, tortillas, salsa piquante and vino blanco. Everything we have, everything we eat including this La Playa Mexican food is a gift of God.

Let us be big enough and grateful enough to acknowledge this fact as we say in honor of Nuestra Senora de Guadalupe, La Patrona de las Americas y el alcade de Soledad our honored friend.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Much of the delince in physical fitness that aging people experience results from "rusting out" rather than "wearing out," say researchers at West Virginia University. They came to that conclusion in a two-year study funded by the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety. It was the first in-depth investigation into the relationship of physical fitness to older-driver performance, and it linked "rusting out" to sedentary lifestyles. The researchers showed that a closely supervised exercise program conducted at home improved the range of motion of older drivers. The exercise improved flexibility needed to look over the shoulder in order to check for blind spots, for parallel parking, and backing up.

A senior citizens golf tournament has become a major event in Westchester County, just north of New York City. Although it had been raining for a week, the latest tournament drew 106 seniors, age 60 to 91. Walter Rose 91, played all 18 holes — and he used a pull-cart. Golf has benefitted seniors more than any other sport, says the director of Westchester's five public golf courses.

NEW SERVICE OFFERED FOR COLLEGE AID

Each year, thousands of students fail to receive their fair share of $30 billion in college aid. This includes awards, grants and scholarships available from state, federal, private, and campus-based sources. Yet last year, over $135 billion went unclaimed. And at a time when many students, otherwise qualified, couldn't attend college due to lack of money. Ironically, the problem is that so many sources of college aid exist, that students don't have the time and resources to identify and research them.

To solve this problem, College Aid Tracking Service (CATS) offers a sophisticated computer service, which identifies the sources. CATS uses a national processing service, whose data bank contains over 300,000 pieces of information. To CATS knowledge, this is the largest database of college aid sources in America.

The company spokesman, Bernie Merrill, is a former trustee of West Valley-Mission Community College District. He describes how the service works:

College students, prospective students or adult re-entry students complete a detailed and well-designed questionnaire. Based upon the questionnaire information, the students receive a personalized 40-page report. The report lists several sources of financial aid based on students circumstances. Additionally, it describes the best strategy to use in applying for programs; how to appeal the amount of an award, and other alternatives, such as low-interest loans.

Rather than writing for information on this service, students save time by simply calling (408) 238-4333 (24 hours) for free information.

Familiar names, new faces return to Spalding

SOME FAMILIAR old names and some promising new names highlight the field for the 19th annual Spalding Invitational Pro-Am which will kick off the new golf year Dec. 13-16 over three magnificant Monterey Peninsula courses.

Included among those names in the $300,000 Spalding field will be two PGA Tour winners and veterans who will be making their first appearances following surgery which severely limited their play this year.

In the case of long-hitting Dan Pohl, major back surgery in late 1989 knocked him off the tour completely this year. In the case of Roger Maltbie, shoulder surgery all but eliminated his effectiveness in a sport where veterans must consistantly meet the challenges being offered by young, new and very talented players.

Both will begin their comebacks Thursday, Dec. 13, when the Spalding swings into action over the Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Poppy Hills golf courses in the Del Monte Forest.

They will be joined by a steller field of PGA and LPGA players that include numerous former winners on both tours in the only tournament in golf to feature men and women going head-to-head for equal prize money.

Pohl's back surgery was a career-threatening situation which forced the two-time PGA Tour winner and former Ryder Cup Player to sit out an entire year. The 1987 Vardon Trophy winner who has finished as high as fifth on the PGA Tour money-winning list, has just started working on his game again.

"I'm, really feeling good." said Pohl from his Phoenix Ariz., home, site of last year's Spalding where he was forced to be a spectator. "I've been hitting balls for the last two months. I've worked my way up to a 1-iron, but I haven't hit a wood yet. I'm feeling good and really looking foward to the Spalding."

Maltbie, a colorful five-time PGA Tour winner from Los Gatos, is in the same frame of mind, looking forward to the Spalding to begin his comeback from shoulder surgery and his poorest year on the tour since he joined the play-for-pay stars in 1975.

"I don't like alibiing." said Maltbie."I had what they call severe bursitis. I don't know for sure that the shoulder problem was why I haven't had a good year. It was never so bad I couldn't play. A lot of guys play through aches and pains all the time.

"The big problem all year was that I couldn't practice. When you can't do that, it's hard to play well," said Maltbie, who hopes the surgery has put that all in the past.

Despite his bad year, Maltbie won only $58,000 plus, he doesn't have to worry about the PGA Qualifying School because he is still riding high with a 10-year exemption as a result of winning the 1985 World Series of Golf.

Included in this year's Spalding field are four former winners, Johnny Miller, who has won just about everything there is to win in the world of professional golf, is now NBC's color man on its golf broadcasts. Bobby Clampett, who grew up on the Monterey Peninsula, is hoping for a comeback of his own on the tour. Bob Gilder, a six-time tour winner, captured the 1988 Spalding title on the peninsula before the tournament took a year's hiatus in the Arizona desert. David Glenz, the other former Spalding champion, is included in the field of club pros for this year's event.

Familiar Spalding names include former Bing Crosby National Pro-Am champs George Burns and Lon Hinkle, former tour winners Dave Barr, Keith Clearwater, Barry Jaeckel, Mike Reid, J.C. Snead, Mark Wiebe, Mark Brooks, Howard Twitty, Mark Hayes, Danny Edwards and Dan Forsman who won this year's San Diego Open.

Some newcomers making their Spalding debuts include David Peoples, fresh from a victory in the Kapalua International, Tour rookie Kirk Triplett, former Rookie of the Year Brian Claar and Blaine McCallister, a three-time winner who finished 15th on the Money List in 1989 with earnings of nearly $600,000.

Also in the field are Spalding regulars Andy North, a two-time U.S. Open champion, and current Ryder Cup team captain Dave Stockton, who includes two PGA Championships in his collection of 11 PGA Tour wins. Then there is Senior Billy Casper who, like Miller has won just about everything there is to win in golf.

Former tour winners now playing in the club pro field include Ron Cerrudo, Bob Lunn and Rod Curl. Also in the field are 1981 U.S. Amateur Champion, Nathaniel Crosby, Carmel Valley Ranch head pro, Ted Goin, and Mike Springer and Ed Humenik, who qualified for the coming PGA Tour year by virtue of finishing fourth and fifth on the Ben Hogan Satellite Tour this year.

Representing the LPGA and being given a distance advantage off the tees on the three championship courses in the Del Monte Forest will be the likes of Julie Inkster, a Spalding regular, and newcomers Deb Richard, Elaine Crosby and Cathy Johnston, who finished 15th, 18th and 21st on this year's LPGA money-winning list.

All proceeds from gallery ticket sales to the Spalding go to the Monterey Kiwanis Club for use in that organization's youth-oriented charity programs.

ARTS & LEISURE

Advance season tickets may be obtained in Northern California golf shops or by calling the Spalding office's toll-free number at 1-800-347-6126. Season tickets are priced at $40 and include the Tuesday-Wednesday practice rounds and all four days of the tournament proper which will conclude on Sunday at the world-famed Pebble Beach Beach Golf Links.

Additional information is available by calling 484-2151, or writing the Spalding office at P.O. Box M, Carmel, CA 93921.

Chanticleer joins voices in celebrating Christmas

CHANTICLEER, THE acclaimed all-male a cappella vocal ensemble, launches this year's holiday season with Christmas concerts at churches and missions throughout California, including Carmel Mission.

The Carmel performance is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 19 at the Carmel Mission.

The 12-member group summons the holiday festivities with programs laced with many of the traditional as well as contemporary selections which are featured on their latest CD recording, Our Heart's Joy – A Chanticleer Christmas on Chanticleer Records.

The ensemble will fill the churches and missions, which besides Carmel will include St. Ignatius Church in San Francisco and Santa Clara Mission, with a repertoire that includes renditions of Jean Mouton's Ave Maria...Virgo serena, Michael Praetorius' In dulci jubilo, and Charles Ives' A Christmas Carol.

The program will also feature a host of holiday arrangements by Chanticleer's own music director, Joseph Jennings, including his inspirational versions of O Come, O Come Emmanuel, O Holy Night and a medley of Christmas spirituals.

Chanticleer was founded in 1978 by Louis Botto and started with a single performance in San Francisco's Mission Dolores. The ensemble went on to win acclaim with performances at the 18th International Fortnight of Music Festival in Bruges, the International Josquin symposium in Cologne, the Voices Festival in Holland and the Salzburg Festival in Austria.

Today Chanticleer performs more than 80 concerts each season in the U.S. and Europe and frequently appears on such radio programs as "St. Paul Sunday Morning," "A Prairie Home Companion," "All Things Considered," and "West Coast Weekend."

The group has eight recordings, including three new recordings this year, Our Heart's Joy; Where the Sun Will Never Go Down, an album devoted to spirituals and traditional gospel music; and a recording of new American choral music featuring works by Ned Rorem, Steven Sametz, Cary John Franklin, and Allen Shearer.

"The light, flowing quality of Chanticleer's phrasing and their fascinating array of subtly changing tone colors made their program a very special listening experience," wrote a critic for the Houston Post.

Tickets are available at all BASS outlets, Do Re Mi in The Barnyard, Carmel (625-1229) and Carmel Plaza (625-5238); Abinante's Music (372-5893); and Center Stage Ticketing (649-5561).

ACCLAIMED ALL-MALE a cappella vocal ensemble Chanticleer launches the holiday season with a special performance at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 19 at the Carmel Mission Basilica. The 12-member group from San Francisco summons the holiday festivities with a program laced with traditional as well as contemporary Christmas selections featured in their latest release Our Heart's Joy – A Chanticleer Christmas.

A 'Night in Vienna' highlights Red Cross Ball

A NUMBER of illustrious places throughout the world, like Monte Carlo, have a Red Cross Ball every year in the Christmas holiday season, often on New Year's Eve.

Why not Monterey?

That's exactly what the Monterey County Chapter of the American Red Cross, together with the Monterey Bay Symphony, is planning for this year.

On Friday, Dec. 14, in the Grand Ballroom of the Old Del Monte Hotel on the campus of the Naval Postgraduate School, a chamber orchestra led by Maestro Haymo Taeuber and featuring soprano Norma Jean Hodges will present a concert of Viennese music, and a salon orchestra will alternate with a dance band for ballroom dancing following dinner. The event is called "A Royal Night in Vienna."

Preceding dinner, a champagne reception with music provided by the Monterey Brass Quintet will begin at 7 p.m., and dancing will continue until "the early morning hours," as it does in Vienna. The Monterey String Quartet plus Pauline Thomas at the piano will play during dinner, which will begin at 8. The concert, accompanying a dessert of famed Viennese "Sachertorte mit Schlagobers," will begin at 9:30.

With Wendy Brodie serving as consultant to the chef on this special occasion, dinner will feature an "exciting and elegant turn-of-the-century Viennese menu."

The theme of the evening until the dancing begins will be entirely Viennese, and the first dance, performed at 10 p.m. by two professional dance couples, will be a Strauss waltz.

Honoring Maestro Haymo Taeuber, who for eight years led the world-renowned Vienna Boys Choir and for 17 years led the Monterey County Symphony, the ball (at $125 per person), will benefit both the Monterey County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the Monterey Bay Symphony.

Committee chairmen are Morley Brown and Ron Weitzman for the Monterey Peninsula and Robert and Madeleine Ziener for Salinas. For further information, call Morley Brown at 624-3166 on the Monterey Peninsula or Emile Serres at 484-9186 in Salinas.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

Loving action

IF GOVERNMENT gave a damn, those many thousands of street-shocked hungry children would be housed and fed. Simplistic yearning? Not at all. Consider the swift logistics and massive expense of Operation Desert Shield. George Bush does care about one foreign lunatic (read it former buddy who quit playing the game by North American rules) messing with the oilmen in our titular president's private power loop.

What we're seeing today: the undisguised death of the social contract. Minorities have lived with that stench since before the Constitutional Convention (where elitist voting rights based on land ownership almost won). The experiment called Democracy by definition contains tough standards – when it doesn't work for the common good, it doesn't work. Today all the dreck's floating to the top for general observation. In brief, the emperor has no clothes. Our leaders live by the lie.

Bitterness would be reasonable, and bitterness kills. Thank heaven that workaday citizens still come through with loving action. Jazzman Bobby Phillips has organized a benefit to help local centers that feed homeless folks. This fund-raiser – pianoramathon – will enliven Shanty Malone's of Valley Hills Center. On Sunday (12/16) from noon till midnight.

At this writing, Bobby still was confirming preliminary commitments. Door charge: $7 per person. The proven generosity of our area's keyboard pros says the event will be worth your time and modest contribution. Call venue owner George Malone for the final lineup – 626-0604.

"We'll have at least 20 pianists working in 45-minute shifts," Phillips said. "I'm inviting classical as well as jazz people – mostly acoustic but some electronic. I think we can have two pianos going at all times. One indoors and one out on the deck. Artists working with bassists and drummers will provide their own."

Bobby's wish list contained at least one fine vocalist. During our chat, he mentioned that flutist Ali Ryerson and her long-time partner – European jazz composer and pianist Charles Loos – have decided to establish residency here. All in all, it should be a fine show. Compassion's the core thereof. See you there&

Meanwhile, Peggy and the Party Boys volunteered delightful sets on a radiant Sunday afternoon at Monterey Youth Center's Holiday Arts and Crafts Festival. That group: never-dull singer Peggy Nesbitt Brown, husband Scott Brown with keyboards and background vocals, bright flutist Kenny Stahl, drummer Pat Tragenza.

Peggy's intrinsic mellowness and the lyrical flute flights combined into thoroughly attractive textures. Kenny says he's forming a Brazilian unit. One hopes that Peggy and Scott will participate as guests or regulars on tunes by such as Jobim, Ivan Lins, Elis Regina, Dorival Caymmi.

KUUMBWA JAZZ Center of Santa Cruz takes an annual break over the holidays. Announced for January and February – some valuable aggregations. Elvin Jones Jazz Machine (1/14), Bobby Hutcherson Quartet (1/21), Dirty Dozen Brass Band (wondrous gang on 1/28), Stanley Turrentine (2/4), Hilton Ruiz Quintet (2/11), Joe Pass (2/18), String Trio of New York (2/25). Kuumbwa ducat books make very nice gifts. Otherwise, Center Stage Ticketing offers advance treatment.

Over there on Friday nights (12/14) – T-Bills with Paul Contos, Jeff Buenz, Rob Lautz, Steve Bennet, Jimi Fox, Jim Baum, Dennis Broughton. Tickets at the door (only $5 per).

THE LATE jazz critic Ralph Gleason helped Jimmy Lyons refine the vision that became Monterey Jazz Festival. Ralph was a stern and accurate instructor of younger writers (yours truly among them). And the man produced those really rich Jazz Casual shows at KQED-TV in San Francisco.

Good news. Ralph's widow Jean and their son Toby have formed Jazz Casual Productions – company that'll release multiple compilations into the home video market. Gleason did 28 half-hour shows between 1961-68 with people like Woody Herman, Fatha Hines, Dizzy Gillespie, Sonny Rollins, John Coltrane, Jimmy Witherspoon, Mel Torme, Art Farmer, Jim Hall, Cannonball Adderly Quintet, others. Their respect for Ralph let them relax and give unusually intimate interviews. Performances abound.

Writer Gretchen Horton worked with Ralph for years at Fantasy Records. She's helping Jean and Toby gather bids from distributors. Gretchen introduced the firm and showed choice footage last month of Lulu White's Mahogany Hall in New Orleans – all part of the JazzTimes convention there.

THE CURRENT series at Hidden Valley Music Seminars goes Latin with a dance concert on Friday night (12/14). In the spotlight – Tocara. This seven-member group employs Brazilian and Afro-Cuban rhythms. Flute, horn, voices, electrified classical guitars.

Admission's $10 apiece. Center Stage Ticketing or at the door. These events feature a dessert bar with non-alcoholic drinks. Attendees may bring their own wine. Proceeds help support Hidden Valley youth programs.

DOWN IN Los Angeles, a coalition of black organizations requests a boycott of Hollywood films during December's last two weeks. That's a prime viewing period.

Says coalition spokesperson Menelek Sessing: "Hollywood produces an incredible number of films that stereotype and degrade people of color – most especially African Americans. The boycott should protest lingering racism in films."

He also asks studio execs to take a new look at minority hiring. "If we're responsible for 30-40 percent of ticket sales, then we're entitled to 30-40 percent of all management positions."

SIGHT BITES: Papa Jake Stock and those Abalone Stompers will give a free concert at The Barnyard on Saturday afternoon (12/15 and 1/4).

Don't forget the Third Thursday Jazz Series produced by Nick Williams at the Vista Lobos Room of Carmel's Vista Lobos Park. Next show's on Thursday evening (12/20) beginning at eight o'clock. Pro players and singers will be scheduled throughout the next year, says Nick, "along with gifted students." Info: 626-9151.

Recommended night sounds – The Firehouse jam sessions fronted by bassist Norm Ross (Thursdays and Saturdays), Bill LePine Quartet with saxist John Cortes at Monterey Beach Hotel (Wednesdays through Saturdays), guitarist Jeff Linsky at Monterey Plaza Hotel (Fridays and Saturdays), Monterey Peninsula Jazz Orchestra at Mission Ranch Barn (Mondays), Bill Allison and Jazz pals at Pablo's in The Barnyard (Wednesdays), blues jams at Monterey Brewing Company (Sunday afternoons), pianist Ace Hill plus bassist at Doubletree Lounge (Thursdays through Saturdays), trad sets at Moss Landing Inn (Sunday afternoons), Monica Harle Trio at Highlands Inn (Fridays and Saturdays), Brazilian percussionist Helcio Milito and pianist Weber Drummond at Spanish Bay Lobby Lounge (Wednesdays through Sundays).

Vocalist Gail Bobson works the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club on Thursday evening (12/13). Others: Ken Arconti Blues Band (12/14-15), TV football (12/16-17), Jack and Ed Show (12/18), Alan Berman (12/19).

The superb Brazilian singer and composer who uses just her first name – Joyce – will have a new PolyGram album out come springtime and'll undertake a major tour. That word from label rep Susan Reik.

New Year's Eve booking for Kimball's of San Francisco – Les McCann and his Magic Band.

Yoshi's of Oakland has blues master Taj Mahal (12/13-15). Excellent vocalist Laurie Antonioli with Bliss Rodriguez Trio (12/20).

This is an opportunity for those interested in volunteering with the Buddy Program to learn more about the roles, responsibilities and rewards of being a "Big Buddy." For details, call 649-0276.

ON STAGE

As adapted by Artistic Director Luis Valdez from the centuries old Mexican folk drama, the play, in a pageant of color, music and dance, recreates the four miraculous apparitions of the Virgin of Guadalupe to the indio Juan Diego outside of Mexico City in 1531. It is performed and sung in Spanish.

Performances run Thursdays through Sundays until Dec. 16. All Thursday, Friday and Saturday shows begin at 8 p.m. Sunday shows begin at 7 p.m. On Sunday, Dec. 16, a 3 p.m. matinee has been added. The Old Mission, located on the San Juan Bautista plaza, is accessible to the handicapped. Advance ticket purchase is strongly recommended.

Tickets are $12 for adults, $10 for students and seniors and $6 for children under 12.

For details, call 623-2444.

The Importance of Being Earnest

Oscar Wilde's brilliant and risible farce, The Importance of Being Earnest, is staged by the Staff Players Repertory Company at the Indoor Forest Theater, Carmel.

Wilde's spoofing of the upper classes and the dramatic conventions of the day has delighted audiences every year since its first production in the 1890s. Like many contemporary comic writers, Wilde was more interested in being clever than being truthful, and his young lovers and their parents and guardians offer a stylish and pleasant enjoyment for the holidays. The play is directed by Philip Clarkson.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2:30 p.m. Sundays until Dec. 22. The theater is at Mountain View and Santa Rita in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

The Staff Players Repertory Company is the adult support arm of the Children's Experimental Theatre. For reservations or information, call 624-1531.

Play It Again, Sam

Woody Allen's comedy, Play It Again, Sam, continues its run in the GroveMont Theater Arts Center. Play It Again, Sam follows the trials and tribulations of Allan Felix (Michael Jacobs), as his friends attempt to "fix him up" with a variety of beautiful dates, with disastrous results. Throughout these blind dates, Allan is coached by none other than his movie hero, Humphrey Bogart (Kerry Hartjen). The cast also features Nita Raichart, James Brady, Gina Ferrari, Denise Clifford, Elizabeth Klass, Gretchen Greaves, Maryann Schaupp and Lorraine Crawford.

Jim Webber directs Play It Again, Sam. Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and at 7 p.m. Sundays until Dec. 15.

Tickets on Thursdays and Sundays are $8.50 general and $7 for students, seniors and military. Ticket prices on Fridays and Saturdays are $9.50 general and $8 for students, seniors and military. Advance tickets may be purchased through Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561. For reservations, call the GroveMont Theater at 649-6852. GroveMont is at 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey.

The Drunkard

The wages of drink are outlined in The Drunkard, when a totally respectable Edward Middleton becomes downtrodden after being tempted with drink. Of course, as in all good melodramas, all ends well with Edward back in the loving arms of his family. The title role is played by Kurt Menke.

California's First Theatre is the setting for The Drunkard. The theater, the oldest in the state, is located at the corner of Scott and Pacific streets in historic downtown Monterey.

Seating is at 7:30 p.m. for the 8 p.m. curtain on Fridays and Saturdays.

Tickets are $7 for adults, $5.50 for seniors and teens and $4.50 for subteens. The theater box office is open 1 to 5 p.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays and 1 to 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

For tickets or information, call 375-4916 or 649-5561.

Joyful offerings

CONTINUING THE seasonal outpouring of joyful choral offerings, the Camerata Singers of Monterey County under the direction of Dr. Vahe Aslanian, performed Saturday night in the Carmel Mission Basilica.

As in years past, the honors for programming which is fresh, unhackneyed and rewardingly different must be awarded to Dr. Aslanian. There were no well-worn sounds to be heard, rather there were excursions into areas of musical territory that were refreshingly and pleasingly off the beaten path.

Three Renaissance motets whose texts told the Nativity story, were sung a cappella to open the program. The Camerata Singers acquited themselves nobly. Beginning delicately with quiet tone as voice after voice made their entrances in de Victoria's Ne timeas Maria the vocal balance was exactly right. Hassler's Angelus ad pastores ait elicited bright tone in the spirited delivery of this joyful music with its charming polyphonic effects. The singing had grace and fluidity. Sweelinck's Hodie Christus natus est had strong antiphonal passages and was delivered with much devotional fervor. The discipline and clarity of the chorus throughout these three works showed that fine concentration and much hard work must have gone into achieving such noteworthy results.

The cantata Wie schon leuchtet der Morgenstern by Johann Kuhnau, a now forgotten but once very popular contemporary of J.S. Bach, was next. After an unfortunate opening orchestral statement, fine singing of the chorale theme rescued the situation. The tenor soloist was Gene Albin, whose performance in this Passion Evangelist-type music was the best I have heard from him to date. He sounded well-prepared, full voiced and very secure. His aria O Wundersohn, delivered over the piping of two sweet sounding recorders played by Martha Crewe and Pauline Cantin, was solidly executed.

Kuhnau followed the usual cantata format of the period, alternating choral and solo movements. The contrapuntal chorus Uns ist ein Kind Geboren has the same spirit as the Handel Messiah version of this text and the sturdy strength and clean lined entrances were very effective. The finale Zwingt die Saiten begun sweetly and lightly by the sopranos and altos, led into another resounding statement of the chorale melody and all was very well sung and played to make an impressive ending to this well-resurrected work.

The Concerto Grosso op. 8, no. 6 by Torelli was performed by violinists Vernon Brown and Sharon Jones and the orchestra strings. This relatively brief work with its charming alternations of soloists and tuttis, added another tonal dimension of the concert.

The high point and climax of the evening was the closing number, Francesco Durante's delightfully Italian Baroque Magnificat. Yet another overlooked gem, it is almost Mozartean in its melodic grace and flavor. The music has an appealing charm and gaiety of spirit and it was sung with sprightly, yet warm tones, great assurance and sensitivity. The Camerata has made great strides since their Spring Concert. The real and only problem is that Durante wrote economically and the work is far too short. I wanted twice as much.

To overcome this and in keeping with an old tradition of the Baroque period, Dr. Aslanian interpolated Christmas chorales between the movements of the Magnificat. Though these chorales were stylistically apt and agreeable and were excellently sung, they broke into the pace and flow of the large work which deserved to be allowed to make its own high quality statement.

The traditional seasonal program closer Silent Night was sung by all present. There is one more installment of Music for Christmas in the offing next Friday and Saturday night, Dec. 14th and 15th, when the Monterey Choral Society will take its turn to be heard in the Mission.

Singing Christmas Tree to perform on Cannery Row

FROM Dec. 12-16, the Cannery Row Promotional District once again will sponsor the Peninsula Christian Center's 27th annual performance of The Singing Christmas Tree.

The "human" Christmas tree is a 35-foot high outdoor structure accommodating 75 carolers, who will sing a diversified selection of Christmas music. "It's Christmas!" is this year's theme.

Donning colorful Christmas capes, choir members will sing from the structure, which will be brightly lit and flocked with pine boughs and other festive decorations.

The outdoor singing Christmas tree is reported to be one of the last of its kind in the nation.

This year will mark the fourth consecutive year the CRPD has sponsored the traditional Christmas event on Cannery Row.

No admission will be charged for the 45-minute nightly musical presentation which will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the parking lot at Prescott Avenue and Cannery Row. Performances will be interpreted for the deaf.

Ballet Fantasque set to perform all-new version of 'Nutcracker'

THE BALLET Fantasque Company of the Monterey Peninsula will present an all-new production of The Nutcracker on Saturday, Dec. 15 and Sunday, Dec. 16 at 3 p.m. at the Steinbeck Forum in the Monterey Conference Center.

Set to music of Tchaikovsky, Act 1 of this production will feature guest artists of the Monterey Opera, accompanied by pianist Israel Kremen. Lisa Goodwin, formerly of Cleveland Ballet and Paul Giovinazzo of New West Ballet of San Diego will be featured in the roles of the Sugarplum Fairy and her Cavalier. The Rising Star Gymnastic Team will perform the roles of the evil Bats in the battle scene.

Ballet Fantasque of the Monterey Peninsula is a company of 10 dancers. Their repertoire which includes classical ballet, folk ballet and interpretive dance, was thoughtfully composed for universal appeal and dramatic variety.

Founded in 1974, Ballet Fantasque has become the peninsula's first in-residence ballet company and has consistently presented quality programs, often inviting guest artists from throughout the United States. Special events have included "Spring Gala" performances and Summer Ballet Festivals as well as the full-length Nutcracker ballet.

Kira Ivanovsky, director, choreographer and ballet mistress, brings the experience of a distinguished ballet career to her company. As a member of Col. de Basil's Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo and the European ballet troupes of Vera Nemchinova and Boris Kniazeff, she toured extensively throughout France, Italy, Spain, Holland and England.

Ivanovsky taught ballet for the New London Jr. College in Connecticut and later taught in San Francisco and Santa Cruz. In 1960, she opened her own school on the peninsula and since then, has expanded her center of dance to include the company.

Ballet Fantasque is a nonprofit company and has been awarded grants from the City of Carmel and the Crosby Fund.

Tickets for this holiday production are $10 for the general public, $8 for seniors and students and $5 for children 12 and under. Advance tickets are on sale at Center Stage Ticketing in Monterey at 649-5561. The public is advised to purchase tickets early. For more information call 372-0388.

KIRA IVANOVSKY, director, choreographer and ballet mistress, brings her wealth of experience and knowledge to the Ballet Fantasque Company's production of The Nutcracker Dec. 15-16 at Monterey Conference Center.

Creatures from the depths featured in aquarium program

LIVING HISTORY theater programs and eight live video broadcasts of unusual creatures in the depts of Monterey Bay are planned during the month of December at the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

Each weekend, aquarium volunteers will perform "Sardines to Sea Stars," a Rip Van Winkle tale about a sardine cannery worker who wakes up after sleeping 50 years and finds himself in the aquarium on a much-changed Cannery Row. The performance includes dress-ups in which the actors transform children in the audience into cannery workers and marine creatures.

"Live from the Deep Canyon" – a new exhibit and the first of its kind in the world – lets visitors peer over the shoulders of research scientists as they explore the depths of the Monterey submarine canyon. It will be broadcast on eight weekdays during the month.

Video images of unusual and fascinating animals in waters up to 3,000 feet deep are beamed back to the aquarium auditorium from an unmanned research submarine in the bay. Aquarium educators, using a sophisticated computer and laser disc system, are able to answer audience questions and explain what the scientists are studying. Through the computer, they have access to recorded interviews with the scientists, and footage of marine life, the research vessel and the canyon itself.

"Sardines to Sea Stars" will be performed at 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday in December. The program also includes the screening of a 12-minute historical move about the old Hovden cannery, where the aquarium now stands.

"Live from the Deep Canyon" will be presented on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 17 and 18, and on Thursday, Dec. 20. All broadcasts will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., except Dec. 20, when the program will begin at 11:30 a.m.

The aquarium is open daily except Christmas from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The box office closes at 5:30 p.m.

Joseph Yang's wireworks shown

"Wireworks," an expression of Chinese painting using fine wire and solder, will be featured throughout December in the Hallway Gallery of the Carmel Foundation.

The artist is Joseph Yang, who was born in Manchuria in 1926. At the close of World War II, after the dissolution of his wealthy family, Yang began a tortuous 2,000 mile journey by foot to southern China. His path would then lead him across the Pacific via Taiwan and Japan to America.

When Yang came to Carmel 20 years ago, the peace of his new home afforded him the environment to concentrate on his paintings and calligraphy. From the discipline and beauty of the expressed line – the key to Chinese painting – Yang developed his wireworks. His materials are simple: fine wire and solder. The spontaneity of his design belies the complexity of thought given to creating both a visually pleasing and structurally sound piece of work.

Yang attended Meiji University, Tokyo, Japan, and received his M.A. in international relations in 1966.
